Full Inquiry Into McFarland Wheat Deals Demanded

Preliminary Skirmish on Dominion-guaranteed Grain Buying Witnessed at To-day's Sitting of Commons Banking Committee

To Secrecy Wanted Declare Liberals
Ottawa, March 22.—The Commons banking committee held a preliminary skirmish to-day on whether it would hold a wide open public inquiry into the Dominion-guaranteed wheat operations of John McFarland of Winnipeg. A decision was delayed until later in the day, when it was said the head of the central selling agency of the prairie pools might appear as a witness and give his own opinion of the question.
Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Finance Minister, said the government did not intend to limit the inquiry into the McFarland operations. The investigation should include the most meticulous details, but "it is in the public interest that certain information should be made public to the world."
Mr. L. Bowman, Conservative, Dauphin, Man., suggested a secret meeting to discuss the McFarland operations. It would be disastrous if the committee did anything to depress wheat prices, he said.
SECRECY WANTED
The days of secret diplomacy are over, and it is a good thing, declared a Liberal member.

YOUNG MAN ON MURDER COUNT

William Cairnie Alleged to Have Shot Foreman Who Refused Him a Job
William Cairnie, aged twenty-seven, was held by provincial police at Clinton, B.C., to-day on charge of murdering Sidney Albert Westbrook, section foreman of the P.C.E. Railway at Chasm, who he is alleged to have shot yesterday evening because he later would not give him a job on the railway.
Word of the shooting reached here this morning from Inspector J. J. Macrae, officer commanding C division of the provincial police at Kamloops. According to the message, a calibre Smith and Wesson revolver was found in possession of Cairnie, who is being held by Sergeant Wood at Clinton.
Cairnie, it appeared, had been hired for the P.C.E. in the past, but had been promised work by Westbrook when a vacancy occurred. Westbrook, it was stated, had asked Cairnie to hire a man and did not like him. Cairnie, who is alleged to have shot the foreman when they met about 10 o'clock last night between Chasm and the Fifty-five Mile House, Cairnie had been employed as caretaker for the Fifty-five Mile House.
Inspector Shivers has left Kamloops to a doctor to hold a postmortem.

VALERA WANTS SENATE ENDED
Irish Dail Gives First Reading to Bill Suddenly Introduced
Canadian Press and Associated Press
Dublin, Irish Free State, March 22.—The Dail Eireann to-day passed on first reading a bill to abolish the Senate, introduced by Eamon de Valera.
The vote was seventy-nine to forty-three.
Angered because the Senate had killed a bill to prevent the wearing of political uniforms, President de Valera took the drastic step.
Describing the Senate as "a menace to the country," the President said to the government "for a long time has considered abolishing it."
EIGHTEEN MONTHS
Should the Dail pass the measure and the Senate reject it, action on it will be delayed for eighteen months.
Hakodate's population was 200,000.

DOUBLE SHIFT AT M. & W. MILL

Lumber Orders For Sixty Days Necessitate Employment of Fifty Extra Men
So many orders have piled up on the files of the Moore and Whittington Lumber Company that the directors have started a second shift, employing forty men, it was announced to-day by William Moore, managing director of the company.
The output of the mill has been moved up to 90,000 feet daily, and 125 men are finding employment at the plant. Orders are on hand for fifty days with the double shift working.
The first shift is starting at 6 a.m. and the mill shuts down at 11:30 p.m. The saw and door factory is also working at full time.
The Moore and Whittington mill is the only one in the city which has worked right through the depression. Most of the lumber being cut is for delivery in the United Kingdom, eastern Canada, South Africa, Australia and China. In addition to what is going out by boat from this port one carload of lumber is being shipped daily to the prairies.
The loggers' strike is not expected to interfere with the supply of logs, it was explained. The mill buys from small logging camps, which are not affected by the strike, and a supply has been guaranteed for many months.

"Give Us Chance To Work Out Problems" Is Sloan's Appeal

Attorney-General Argues Constitutionality of SPA in House; Refuses to Sacrifice Youth on Altar of Money; Clashes With McGeer; Opposition Continues Attack
Another salvo of criticism from the Opposition benches was met with a trenchant answer from Attorney-General Gordon Sloan as the Legislature spent the afternoon yesterday in debating the Special Powers Act.
Making his first lengthy speech of the session, the Attorney-General dealt with both the legal and common sense sides of the bill and sounded again the Government's plea, issued by Hon. G. M. Weir, "that drastic measures were needed to prevent the youth of the country being sacrificed on the altar of money."
He replied to the legal talent from the Opposition side which had been heard previously and crossed swords several times with G. G. McGeer, K.C., Burrard.
With the Opposition's ammunition practically exhausted on the bill, and only one or two Liberals expected to speak, the final vote on second reading of the SPA is anticipated to-day.
Mr. Sloan first replied to R. H. Pooley's appeal for the traditions of the elder statesmen of the province.
"Don't forget," he said, "we are now living in an age of youth, and the traditions motivating those elder statesmen are not good enough for the forward-thinking youth of to-day."
"Did those same statesmen" (Turn to Page 10, Col. 2)

REPORTS SAY RUSSIA MAY JOIN LEAGUE

Diplomatic Circles in Paris Predict Soviet Will Become Member at Geneva in September
Canadian Press and Associated Press
Paris, March 22.—The entry of Soviet Russia into the League of Nations at the September session of the Assembly was predicted in diplomatic circles to-day.
Since Turkey joined the League July 6, 1933, the Moscow government is reported to have shown a strong tendency in favor of following suit.
Germany's abrupt break from the League last October 14 is regarded as having further contributed to an atmosphere favorable to Russia's admission. To-day's reports said Soviet government leaders had been sounding out member powers and had received assurance Russia would be welcomed to the League.
To-day it was suggested the possible entrance of Russia might now result in bringing back her neighbors, Germany and Japan.

PLANE WRECK OF 1932 FOUND

Nine Bodies and Wreckage Discovered in Argentine Andes
Associated Press
Mendoza, Argentina, March 22.—One of the greatest mysteries of the air was solved to-day when searchers found the wreck of the Pan-American Airways liner San Jose, lost twenty months ago in a flight over the Andes.
They found the bodies of the nine occupants of the plane, two of them United States citizens, under a heavy blanket of snow.
The plane was crumpled in the Argentine mountains, four miles south of Puento del Inca. Its disappearance in July, 1932, caused a dogged, widespread search.
For days after the plane was lost on a flight between Santiago, Chile, and Buenos Aires other planes cruised back and forth over the regular route. Other expeditions were sent out on foot, through snow-covered mountain passes, in an effort to determine the fate of the fliers.
The ship carried six passengers and three crew members.
The San Jose left Santiago at 6:40 a.m. July 16, 1932.

"Caddy" Claimed By California

Editor of Seattle Times Springs To Defence of Victoria in Latest Move By California; "It Was To Be Expected," He Says
Apparently there is a determined effort on the part of California to kidnap "Caddy." A number of stories telling of the appearance of Victoria's own sea serpent have emanated from that state, but "Caddy" will not be removed from local waters without a bitter battle. And Victoria will not have to fight alone, for the editor of The Seattle Times has sprung to the capital's defence already.
Writing under the heading "Incredible!" the editor of The Times says:
"It was to be expected, of course. No part of the country or of the continent can develop an interesting 'natural resource' without having California hob up with claim to the same or something just as good. This time it is the Canadian sea serpent, born and bred, so far as anyone has been aware, in and around Cadboro Bay, Victoria. Suddenly, and for no reason on earth, this identical sea serpent is now said to have taken up his or her residence within the confines of the Golden Gate."
The report comes from ferry boat passengers, touring back and forth across San Francisco Bay. They not only say they saw a sea serpent, but (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

LOCAL LABOR LEADER DIES

J. Harry Owen Passes Following Seizure at Meeting of Trades Council
John Henry (Harry) Owen, one of the most widely known and respected leaders of the Labor movement in Victoria, died this morning following a seizure at the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council. His sudden death climaxed an active life spent in fighting the cause of Labor and he will be widely missed by his many friends among the trade unions.
He passed away at 4 o'clock this morning after being taken to his home, 491 Superior Street, following the attack at last night's meeting. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon from Sands Mortuary Chapel. Lieut.-Col. H. J. N. de Salis officiating. Interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.
Born in Knighton, South Wales, Mr. Owen first came to Canada thirty years ago. In Wales and other parts of England he was engaged in the contracting business with his father. He came to Manitoba, where he followed this trade for two years, later coming to Victoria. He resided here twenty-eight years.
For eighteen years he served the city as foreman and superintendent of maintenance in the works department. After leaving this post, ten years ago he followed the trade of a bricklayer, having been secretary of the bricklayers' union since he came here.

Some Jump Into Lifelines Held By Firemen; Others Guided Out as Fire Advances and Smoke Fills Corridors and Rooms of 87—Apartment Building

Losses Estimated As High As $100,000
Canadian Press
Toronto, March 22.—Fire blazing upward from the basement of a Lakeshore apartment house in the west end of Toronto, drove half-clad occupants to the street to-day through smoke-filled corridors and down towering ladders. Between fifty and 100 tenants, mostly women and children, took refuge in nearby stores and houses as flames gutted the east wing of the Lakewood Mansions on Queen Street west, with a loss estimated up to $100,000.
Many tenants were shut off from the main hallways and entrance and were forced to resort to the ladders. Firemen held hysterical girls and women to the stairs.
ENTRANCE CUT OFF
Seven fire reels rushed to the blaze as it spread rapidly in the eighty-seven-apartment building. Rescue crews were brought out with safety nets and additional extension ladders as the entrance to the building was shut off by smoke and flames.
One woman, with her infant in arms, was carried down a fire escape by firemen. Others smashed through windows and jumped into life nets. Several persons were reported ill from effects of the smoke and fright.

PACKERS SAID TO PENALIZE DROVERS

Livestock Dealer Who Is Member of Ontario Legislature Testifies Before Commons Business Inquiry Committee in Ottawa
Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 22.—Packers penalized drovers who would not sell hogs of all grades in one lot to packing houses. C. W. Hamby, member of the Ontario Legislature for Frontenac-Lennox, charged before the Stevens committee of the House of Commons to-day.
Because he had sold his light and butcher hogs in separate lots, packers had disciplined him, the Ontario member stated, by holding off all bids for five days on his bacon and select hogs. With twenty-five years' experience as a drover, the witness gave his experience on the Montreal market on March 12.
On that day, he told the committee, packers had offered him a price for his entire lot of 105 hogs which would have meant a loss to him. He proceeded to sell his light and butcher hogs, leaving on hand twenty-seven hogs of the higher class, namely bacon and select. But working on an "understanding" between themselves, the packers who made more money buying the lower grades with the higher ones, had left him stranded of offers for nearly a week. The packers took the same buyers off the livestock markets by selling to them dressed pork secured from light hogs for which the packers had paid a lower price.

To Appear Before Banking Committee; National Credit Motion Passes
British Columbia's views on the Bank of Canada Act, as expressed in the national credit resolution adopted unanimously by the Legislature yesterday, will be placed before the banking committee of the House of Commons within a short time by G. G. McGeer, K.C., the Liberal member for Vancouver-Burrard.
Mr. McGeer received word from R. E. Hanson, chairman of the committee, that he would be subpoenaed as a witness in the inquiry now under way to supplement what he told the McMillan banking commission in Vancouver.
He will leave for Ottawa in a few days.
The resolution passed by the House yesterday afternoon on recommendation of the public accounts committee calls for a complete revision of the monetary economics of Canada, with the use of national credit, through the central bank, to finance domestic, provincial and municipal governments.

Last-hour Efforts To Avert Port Strike

If They Fail 12,000 Men at Harbors Along U.S. Pacific Coast Will Quit Work To-morrow
Associated Press
San Francisco, March 22.—Governor James Rolph to-day sent a personal telegram to Hugh Johnson, N.R.A. administrator, at Washington, in an effort to halt the impending strike of 12,000 longshoremen on the Pacific Coast of the United States to-morrow.
SIGN PUT UP
San Francisco, March 22.—A sign reading "Strike takes place Friday morning at 8 o'clock," was posted to-day at the waterfront headquarters here of the International Longshoremen's Association as mediators redoubled their efforts to prevent a walkout of some 12,000 longshoremen in Pacific Coast ports to-morrow.
The longshoremen committee organized relief committees under direction of Edwin Royce, coast chairman of the International Workers' Relief, while San Francisco police prepared to patrol the waterfront to prevent any possible violence.
Mediators said the negotiations apparently had reached a deadlock and that no further meetings were planned in efforts to reach a settlement over increased wages and the "closed shop."
Should negotiations fail and the strike be called, mediators said fifty-eight ships would be tied up in the San Francisco harbor alone.

Ten Persons Injured in Clashes Between New York
Taxi Strikers and Police

Associated Press
New York, March 22.—Violence flared anew in New York's taxi strike early today after another clash between strikers and police in the theatre district.

At least ten persons were injured and more than a dozen arrested, as the result of disorders in various parts of the city.

The demonstration in the theatre district last night, centring in Times Square, was broken up by police. Strikers called by regular patrolmen were swamped. Strikers and sympathizers estimated at 5,000 surged down Broadway just as the theatres were emptying. They pulled doors from cabs, yanked out taxi radio sets, hurled missiles through cab windows and unceremoniously ordered passengers out of cabs.

AT BIG STATION

One group of demonstrators marched to the Grand Central Terminal and caused drivers of about 200 cabs parked outside to flee into the station for safety. Police were called to escort them home.

Four policemen reported being attacked by demonstrators. Two required medical attention. Other persons were injured when they were knocked down by two taxis driven on the sidewalk when the chauffeurs attempted to avoid a group of marchers.

In Brooklyn two drivers were stopped and their cabs saturated with gasoline and set afire.

Grand National To Be Broadcast

The running of the Grand National, which will be broadcast tomorrow, will be described from vantage points on the course in an international broadcast which will be heard over the NBC and CBS networks. The race will be heard in Victoria at 6.45 a.m.

This will be the ninety-sixth running of the race, termed one of the most exciting turf events of the year, in which anything may happen. The thrills of the hazardous jumps will be pictured first-hand to NBC listeners by H. C. Lyle and H. Last year's Grand National was won by an American-owned horse, Keliboro Jack, entered by Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark of New York. The time was 9.28 and the purse was $13,000. Lyle also described this running over an NBC network.

LOCAL LABOR LEADER DIES

MADE LABOR HEAD

He was elected president of the Trades and Labor Council in 1932 as a tribute to the fine work which he had done in the interests of union men. Last year also he advocated the cause of Labor in the Provincial elections, being the only straight Labor candidate to contest a Victoria seat.

During the war, Mr. Owen spent two years at Port Victoria, where the Royal Air Force, where a training camp was established by arrangement with the United States. At that time he was in charge of engine supplies.

Possessed of a happy and cheery nature, "Harry," as he was familiarly called by his friends, never refused the opportunity to aid anyone and he spent long hours visiting civic and provincial authorities in the interests of needy families of persons who were seeking readjustment of this product last year.

He is survived by, besides his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Owen, three sons, Kenneth, Reginald and Gordon, and a daughter, a half-brother in Manchester, England.

War Dangers Have Echoes at Ottawa

NICKEL EXPORTS INCREASE

In moving the government prohibition of nickel for war purposes, Mr. Woodsworth told the Commons the great increase in the exportation of this product last year indicated it was being put to some extraordinary use. As Canada controlled 82 per cent of the world's supply of nickel, this was one very effective way in which this country could make a contribution to world peace.

Tied up with the Woodsworth resolution was a request that the League of Nations exercise control of armament manufacture by private companies and the exchange of raw materials entering into such manufacture.

A number of members spoke and expressed approval of Mr. Woodsworth's main ideas on the war question, but doubted if a ban on nickel exports would satisfy useful purpose. The resolution of the suggestion of Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Finance Minister, was withdrawn.

Opening the debate Mr. Woodsworth pointed out that nickel produced in Canada went into armaments.

Mr. Woodsworth painted a picture of world conditions which showed conflict either in progress or just recently composed of almost every continent. Armament manufacturers were working harder than they had for years. In the Speaker's opinion, the armament industry was placed on the same illegal basis as trafficking in drugs.

MINISTER SPEAKS

Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Mines, said that as could be ascertained only about 4 per cent of the nickel produced in Canada was used for the manufacture of arms. He was confident that it would be impossible to determine the use of which nickel might be put after it went outside the country as nickel already used for other purposes could be converted into war materials.

"If I thought prohibition of the export of nickel would bring about the abolition of war or the postponement of war, I would vote for it," said Mr. Gordon.

If the object was to prohibit war, the proper course to pursue was that of upholding the efforts and aims of the League of Nations or any other organization with similar objects. If the League of Nations decided nations should prohibit export of armaments as a means to stop war, well and good.

M. Luckovitch, U.F.A. Vegreville, advocated revision of the Versailles Treaty, which, he said, contained all the seeds of the present troubles in Europe.

NICKEL-PLATED BULLETS
Nickel-plated bullets were the most humane type of death-dealing missiles, Brig.-General A. E. Ross, Conservative, Kingston, stated. As a medical officer during the Great War he had seen hundreds of war wounded, he said, and knew of what he spoke.

At the suggestion of Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, Mr. Woodsworth withdrew his motion, satisfied the discussion provoked by it had served a useful purpose.

MRAE RESOLUTION
In the Senate, Major-General McRae, in a notice of a resolution declaring "That this house is of the opinion that Canada should withdraw from membership in the League of Nations and that no further money should be voted to the League."

Senator McRae said the failure of the League of Nations to attain the object for which it was founded, namely, world peace, was now generally recognized.

"The present deplorable preparations for war throughout the world are disturbing to every lover of peace," he added. "The responsibility that may rest on Canada, as a member of the League, to take part in future wars, is a matter of concern to every Canadian."

Canada ought to remain neutral at all costs and so should cut off the duties imposed on members of the League, he said.

Full Inquiry Into McFarland Wheat Deals Demanded

Clared Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Liberal, Quebec East. "The same is true of secret politics."

He joined other Liberals and Progressives in pressing for a public hearing with all details of the operations laid bare.

"I doubt the advisability of throwing this question wide open and saying how much grain is in the hands of the government or its agents," he said.

He said millions of bushels of wheat were still in the hands of prairie farmers, and anything that might tend to depress the price would be very bad for the farmer. He did not know how much wheat the government held, nor if it had made a profit or loss.

W. DUFF'S VIEW

William Duff, Liberal, Antigonish, Guyabrook, took the strictly opposite view. The head of a great Canadian railway (the Canadian Pacific) had been called before the committee and questioned closely as to the business of his company, and the same had happened with a leading Canadian bank, he said. There was no reason why the operations of the government should not be given the same open examination.

RIGHT TO KNOW
"Surely," said Major C. G. Power, Liberal, Quebec South, "as representatives of the people, we have the right to know the commitments of this country, what we owe, the assets and the extent of the possible loss of profit and the method of operation."

When Major Power used the word gambling in connection with the government's operations, he struck fire from several quarters. A Quebec member said he had used it in a relative sense.

For his concealing the situation from the public, Mr. Power was criticized. Power hazarded the view Europe probably knew Canada's wheat production, but the Canadian people, he said, did not know whether they would be required to contribute $100,000, $1,000,000 or even $100,000,000 as a result of this gambling."

H. E. Spencer, U.F.A., Battle River, declared no person was more concerned with the interests of the wheat growers than himself and he would not support any move likely to depress prices. Nevertheless, he was of the opinion only good could come from an open disclosure of the present situation with respect to government guarantees of the wheat pools.

BANK CHARTERS
Taking up the notice of motion for amendments, the committee then gave consideration of that moved by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Liberal, Vancouver Centre, to make the life of the bank charter five years instead of ten.

Mr. Mackenzie said the new ground being broken in financial legislation this year, a revision should be made in five years when, if all was satisfactory, reversion to the ten-year period could be effected.

Canadian banks already had the shortest period of peace of any in the world and a revision shorter than ten years would be intolerable, Mr. Rhodes said.

The amendment was defeated.

HOLDERS OF STOCKS
An amendment moved by Mr. Spencer, which would restrict the chase of any new stock issues by banks to British subjects resident in Canada, was given short shrift. Mr. Rhodes said the committee had about 27 per cent of chartered bank stocks was owned outside Canada. The motion was lost.

BIRDS OF DIRECTORS
G. G. Coote, U.F.A., Macleod, moved the minimum number of directors for a chartered bank be raised to seven, instead of five, and that a majority of the total would form a quorum, instead of three as now in the act.

Mr. Rhodes explained directors' meetings would be cumbersome and expensive if a majority were needed for a quorum.

The committee adjourned at noon in the midst of a debate on another Progressive amendment, to exclude federal and provincial ministers from being bank directors. The discussion cut across the lines of Liberal and Conservative, with some of each opposed and supporting. It was believed the amendment would apply only to Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec, a director of Barclay's Bank.

Some of them are positive in identifying whatever it was they saw as the Cadborosaurus in person.

Since the Cadborosaurus was first observed off the Vancouver Island beach its farthest previous journey has been to other nearby points on the Gulf of Georgia and Puget Sound. The idea that it has abandoned this cheerful region, where it has received all possible attention and courtesy, for the ferry-churned waters of San Francisco Bay, doesn't make sense. In this case the California has presumed too far upon human credulity.

THREE DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Lima, Peru, March 22.—Three persons were killed today when a Pan-American Airways plane crashed at the take-off. On board the plane, and injured in the crash, was Manuel Trucio, Chilean ambassador to the United States.

The inquiry was scheduled to continue this afternoon.

Believing his experience in Montreal, Mr. Hamby declared that in keeping the small buyers off the market the packing houses turned them from competitors into customers.

Formerly there had been no differential on the heaviest grades of hogs, but some days ago the packing houses had sought to establish one, attempting to deduct from the price of the heaviest the differential applied in Toronto. He believed a fixed differential would be to the disadvantage of the producers.

TELLS OF UNDERSTANDING
Asked specifically if there was a combine among the packing houses, Mr. Hamby replied he believed there was an "understanding between them in Montreal." Wherever drivers broke up their shipments of hogs the packing houses would not buy.

Mr. Hamby cited instances where the packing houses in Toronto bought hogs in western Ontario at a low price and shipped them through to their plants in Montreal. He did not think there was any competition in Toronto, but admitted he sent only calves and lambs there. Mr. Hamby recommended the government do away with all gradients and improve the stock of the farmers by distributing high grade hogs and sows.

Executives in every country, President de Valera asserted, had the responsibility of maintaining order, and since a situation had arisen in the Free State necessitating action, the government was taking strong steps.

NICKEL AND WAR

THE export of nickel from this country last year showed a very considerable increase over the preceding year, and Mr. J. S. Woodsworth in the House of Commons yesterday moved that the government prohibit its sale to other countries for war purposes. Since this Dominion controls eighty-two per cent of the world's supply of this commodity the Winnipeg member saw in such a prohibition a fine contribution to the cause of peace by Canada. He found support for his contention from many other members of the House, although at the suggestion of Finance Minister Rhodes he withdrew his motion, satisfied that the discussion it had provoked had served a useful purpose.

Canadian nickel, of course, is shipped to various parts of the world, and is used for many other purposes besides the manufacture of arms. Mr. Woodsworth's introduction of the subject in its relation to war, however, draws attention to the important role the North American continent might assume to make a protracted war on a large scale an absolute impossibility. Our neighbor on the south now is on record against the sale of war material to belligerents. Thus if the two nations were to reach an agreement that on the outbreak of a conflict, not immediately involving them, a complete embargo on the three essentials for munitions would go into effect, they would effectively handicap the combatants. Nickel is indispensable and, as already pointed out, Canada controls eighty-two per cent of the world's supply. Practically eighty per cent of the world's oil production is controlled by the United States, while in that country also the great bulk of the world's cotton is produced. To make a complete job of the embargo on war material products the supply of copper and other minerals which go out to the world from Canada and the United States could be shut off.

There naturally would be difficulties to be overcome in the application of such a ban. But they are not so intricate as to destroy its efficacy. Non-belligerent nations would still require their usual supplies and there would be no disposition to deny them. Any substantial increase in orders for the banned products would at once be detected and an explanation could be asked for. And any war conducted on methods as we now know them would not last long as soon as the combatants were reduced to dependence upon bootlegged materials for munitions.

In sum, human life is worth much more than any profit derivable from the sale of nickel, cotton, copper and oil.

"I WAS A GERMAN"

ERNST TOLLER, THE YOUNG GERMAN Jew dramatist, has written the story of his life. He has entitled it: "I Was a German." In it he tells of his war service, but the poignant chapters are those which deal with the years he spent in jail as a political prisoner. The story of his treatment in prison is almost incredible, and how he contrived to write the plays which have made him famous amid all the terror and torture will be a matter of surprise to the reader. He is an exile from Germany, and perhaps the most telling chapter in his book is that in which he deals with the Germany of to-day. Here are some extracts from his narrative:

"Barbarism is triumphant. Nationalism, racial hatred, state-idolatry dazzle heart and mind and eye. We warned the people, many of us; we gave repeated warnings over many years. But it is we who are to blame, because our voices were faint; we are terribly to blame.

"For now the people look for their salvation not to reason, work and responsibility, but to a spurious saviour. They rejoice in the fetters they have forged for themselves at a nod from their dictator. For a paltry mess of pottage, for a show of barren pageantry, they have sold their freedom and have sacrificed reason.

"But there it is. Everywhere the same lunatic belief that a man, a leader, a Caesar, a Messiah, will suddenly appear and work a miracle; will suddenly arise and take upon his shoulders all responsibility for the future, will master life, banish fear, abolish misery, create a new people, a new kingdom of splendour will suddenly appear endowed with supernatural powers to transform the old Adam into a new man!

"And everywhere the same lunatic fever to fasten on a scapegoat for past misery; to heap upon one head their own failures, their own mistakes, their own crimes. It is the old, old story, the primitive story, of the sacrificial lamb. Only to-day we are not content to sacrifice beasts; we demand the blood of men!

"The consequences are appalling enough. The people have learnt to say yes to their lowest instincts, to give the rein to their lust for power. Spiritual and moral values laboriously and painfully evolved through centuries of martyrdom have become objects of mockery and perverted hatred. Freedom and humanity, brotherhood and justice are poisonous phrases: into the dustbin with them!

"Where is the youth of Europe? Those who saw the old world cast down and shattered into fragments? Herr Toller asks and answers:

"They went on living without knowing why. They looked for work and the factories were closed to them. They waited patiently for their rights and for the fulfilment of their great and courageous dreams, and they were put off with barren words.

is in no sense a piece of sensational journalism. . . . The intensity and beauty of its writing demand that it should be judged as literature. . . . This is what The Manchester Guardian says of it: "Here we find cruelty, beauty, pathos, and humor throughout a book which one reads in an evening, promising oneself to return to this and this and this page on the evenings to follow."

A WISE SELECTION

IT WAS a foregone conclusion that British Columbia's new Department of Municipalities, to be presided over by Hon. A. Wells Gray, would have as its Deputy-Minister Mr. Robert Baird, who for the last twenty years has discharged the important duties of Inspector of Municipalities to the complete satisfaction of the various governments within that period.

Mr. Baird will take to his new post much information and the advantage of personal contacts with practically all municipal officers and members of civic bodies throughout the province. It has been his task to familiarize himself with every problem with which the organized areas have had to contend, and in numerous cases his sound judgment and advice have materially helped in the solution of those problems. It may well be understood that in the last few years the duties of the post which Mr. Baird now is about to relinquish have been especially onerous.

The difficulties which confront every municipality require sympathetic and practical treatment at the hands of the government. The present state of the province's finances does not permit of the amount of financial assistance in which the municipalities stand in urgent need. It is to be hoped that this condition will improve before very long. Meanwhile the municipal officers of the province and the public generally will approve the selection of Mr. Baird for the position of Deputy-Minister of the new department. They will have a friend "at court," and it is advancement in the Civil Service which is well merited.

WHY NOT TRY IT?

DURING the discussion of Mr. Woodsworth's resolution in the House of Commons yesterday relative to the use of Canadian nickel in the manufacture of armaments, Brigadier-General Ross, member for Kingston, observed that nickel-plated bullets were much more humane agencies for killing people in war than other kinds of bullets. Brigadier-General Ross said he spoke as a medical officer of war experience. However, since many members of the House of Commons might not be convinced by his statement, how would it do for somebody to subject himself to a practical demonstration of the relative humanness of the various kinds of bullets, so that Parliament may make no mistake in choosing the nearest agency for snuffing out, or maiming, a precious young life on the battlefield? Indeed, why not test out all of the devices discovered or invented by science for slaughter in war on the statesmen, armament manufacturers and other elements who create wars, in advance of the conflict? Such a course would bring everlasting peace upon us in a torrential rush.

STILL WANTS TO WORK

ONE OF THE MOST PATHETIC SPECTACLES human life affords is that of the man who has worked hard all his life and has reached the time when he is able to retire—and then discovers that his life will be perfectly flat and empty if he leaves his job.

Last spring a seventy-two-year-old federal judge in Seattle informed President Roosevelt that he wished to be put on the retirement list, but asked that he be given the privilege of continuing to preside over admiralty cases—a field in which he has made a considerable reputation.

The other day he explained why he wanted to keep on working. "I never have learned to play," he said. "If I should quit work now, my friends would have to hire somebody within ninety days to watch me."

One would suppose that the period that begins with retirement should be one of the happiest and most fruitful in a man's whole life. It is not unusual to find men who look upon it with dread because they never have learned how to play!

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

NOT IN THE CURRICULUM
The Toronto Globe

In many quarters there will be agreement with Prof. Stephen Leacock's statement before the McGill Society of Toronto to the effect that if a university cannot get along these days without a famous football team it ought to get out of the educational field.

TIME AND MONEY
The Ottawa Citizen

Man arranged the clock to suit himself. Perhaps some day he will see the same can be done with currency which, in itself, is neither half so complicated nor nearly so serviceable as the time-piece was. It has been done with time; let us hope for the day when it is done with money.

THE COST OF THE SENATE
The Regina Leader-Post

Possibly Senator Murphy is correct in saying that the Senate has saved the people of Canada over $103,000,000. If it has, all well and good, and let credit be given accordingly, even if it carries a certain reflection upon the House of Commons. But it might be interesting, in this connection, to figure out just what the Senate has cost Canada, in maintenance. In these sixty-seven years since Confederation. Would the cost offset, even much more than offset, the saving claimed? There might be less criticism of the Senate if it were reduced in size from its present nearly 100 members to, say, fifty members, and if it could be given more work to do. Senator Horner, one of the new Senators from Saskatchewan, has already complained about what he terms the little work he has found to do since reaching Ottawa. The Senate has become almost notorious for short sittings and long adjournments. Cannot it do something itself more useful to the country?

A THOUGHT

For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so must also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him.—Thessalonians iv 14.

The waters of salvation, welling forth from the mercy-seat above, have descended in copious floods to refresh and bless the earth.—G. B. Ide.

Across the Bay

Human passions are still hot, warmed by the fire of the SPA—the Opposition is tireless but rather hopeless in its opposition—Mr. Sloan heads the Hon.—Mr. McGeer won't be shut up—and Mr. Pattullo is proud of his youngest counselor.

By H. B. W.

HUMAN

REALLY, YOU KNOW, though one hates to admit the fact, because it is so hard to translate it into cold type, this House is getting quite interesting; quite rousing, in fact, and human. And what a vigorous, tireless House this Eighteenth Legislature turns out to be! Any elector who imagines that his representatives here are a soft and effeminate lot should have been with us during the last forty-eight hours—all day and most of Tuesday night in a running, ruthless fight on the SPA and yet no let-up on Wednesday, no sign of exhaustion, no dampening of ardor, but rather an increase in it. Yes, you have just to wait the SPA once before the eyes of this House and it goes native, is overwhelmed with primitive human passions and is soon roaring like a lion caged.

It roared all Wednesday afternoon, in the protests of the Opposition against the allegedly dictatorial plans of the government. It roared in the extremely able voice of Mr. Sloan, who has clearly won his spurs as a first-rate fighting man. It roared and grumbled in the gruff, harsher voice of Mr. McGeer, whose roars and grumblings are about to be translated to the national arena in Ottawa not, one suspects, without some relief on the part of this government.

NO POUNCING

THE DAY STARTED with a courteous objection by Mr. Manson to a headline in The Province which said he had "pounded on his leader" when he made an appeal recently for the rights of Parliament. This Mr. Manson flatly denied and he was quite right. Mr. Manson has been loyal to his leader in this House, and probably his position has been widely misunderstood and misrepresented. Mr. Manson stands by his conception of Liberalism without apology and if his views on details don't always jibe exactly with those of the government his conception of Liberalism is wide enough to cover any such event. On the broader aspect of things he is with the government a hundred per cent, and an extremely useful lieutenant, even if he isn't in the cabinet.

That settled, the SPA came on again with Mr. Savage, of Cowichan and the Oxford Group, taking up the fight. Mr. Savage gets mad but never impotent. He delivers damning indictments in a drawing-room voice and refined English. He says we are living in a mere shadow of democracy, that there can be no real democracy until we have applied Christianity to our economic system. Unless we do, we shall have dictatorships and worse. And Mr. Savage for one is not prepared to accept the dictatorship of the Federal Government, about whose freedom from the influence of liquor and other sinister interests he is in some doubt.

Mr. Swales of the C.C.F. followed with one of his earnest Covenanter speeches, in which his Scottish burr grows thicker and more passionate as he contemplates the surrender of ancient rights involved in this SPA. He can't attack the Liberal members as rubber stamps, he says, but no one can stop him thinking just that.

More fiery still, with a passion which makes his words tumble out in a torrent, is Mr. Blakewell of the C.C.F. He calls this most talented Legislature in history (see Premier Pattullo's first speech) a mere game house, a marionette show, in which the strings are pulled by the Big Business and the government a Punch and Judy show.

NO WITHDRAWAL

THIS IS A BIT too hot for the Premier, who rises, very amiably, to suggest that the hon. gent be more temperate and withdraw his reflections on this august body. Mr. Blakewell doesn't withdraw. He calls this assembly the gas house again and says we are about to adopt Fascism.

Jack Price, one of the most human fellows in the C.C.F., challenges the Premier to go to the country with the SPA as the issue—a slim prospect, but always an impressive parliamentary manoeuvre.

Mr. Bruhn delivers a really powerful speech against the SPA and issues the very timely warning that it may become a dangerous weapon in the hands of such a party as the C.C.F. if it ever comes into office. Indeed, Mr. Bruhn thinks the House might as well pack up and go home if it gives the government all these powers—first, of course, having drawn its seasonal indemnity.

But all this is only a preliminary act to the real drama of the day—the joint between the old wily champion, Gerry McGeer and the young knight, Gordon Sloan—a single-handed combat in plain view of British Columbia and a first-rate exhibition of skill and valor.

Mr. Sloan emerges in this House not as the boy of the cabinet; not as the callow youth which some disappointed aspirants may consider him, but as a seasoned and doughty fighter in his own right. The words pour out of him in greater torrent even than Mr. McGeer's. His sentences form themselves almost automatically and emerge red-hot and without a second's pause for thought—the best sentences, in their construction that come from any part of this government.

GIANT KILLER
NOR IS THIS Jack the Giant Killer afraid to meet the great, grisly giant of the Opposition in his own den. He sails into Mr. McGeer's headquarters, flying headlong at his hon. friend's inconsistency, at his somersaults, at his facility for jumping from one position to another.

For, says Mr. Sloan, Mr. McGeer has urged the government to do the very thing it seeks to do under this bill. Why he has even moved amendments to another bill to give the government similar powers. No one, of course, can make Mr. McGeer take this kind of thing in silence. He is soon on his feet on a point of order. Mr. Sloan says he has talked enough. Mr. McGeer insists he must be heard. He declares Mr. Sloan has been misrepresenting him and he launches into a general speech on the whole issue, until the Premier cuts him short. But the Premier admits that even Mr. Sloan has already been out of order, too. Oh, yes, both of them had been out of order, but both had made their speeches, so what does it matter? The fight goes on.

NO CLUTTING

MR. McGEER STILL interrupts. The Liberals hammer their desks and cry for order. Mr. McGeer would ask the hon. Attorney-General for an interpretation of a certain legal decision. The hon. Attorney-General would say that he is not instructing

YOUNG LIBERAL BODY PLANNED

Local Association to Hear Suggestion For Formation of Group

Formation of a Young Liberal Association to include members from all wards of the city will be brought before the central association executives at a meeting to-night.

The plan will be proposed by the delegates from the Ward Five group, who yesterday evening were invited along this line at a general meeting in Liberal headquarters.

The suggestion was given the unanimous support of the meeting as it is felt there was need for education of the younger people in the city of Liberalism.

Mr. Ashorn, president of the Ward Five group, outlined the steps taken by his ward towards the forming of young people's group, which, he stated, had proven most successful in the organization now boasted a membership of thirty.

It was further decided that at the meeting take the form of a social gathering to which prospective members of the young people's association would be invited.

Mr. Sim is convener of the programme.

ITALIAN TELLS OF FRIENDSHIP

Last of Speakers From Italy Stresses Cordial Relations With Britain

"British-Italian friendship constitutes the greatest bulwark for the maintenance of world peace to-day. In the words of Shakespeare, 'Let a Roman and a British ensign wave friendly together; that shall be our motto,'" said Commandatore Luigi Villari, speaking in the last address of the Italian series organized by the National Council of Education, before an audience of about fifty in the Empress ballroom yesterday evening.

Signor Villari dwelt at length on the question of the four-power pact, which he termed "the second line of defence after the failure of the disarmament conference; a new instrument more powerful and less cumbersome than the League of Nations."

This pact, he said, had been originally proposed by Mussolini, and first accepted by MacDonald.

"If it had not been for the four-power pact, the situation would now be far worse than it is," the speaker asserted.

CORDIAL RELATIONS

The lecturer traced the history of the relations between Italy and Britain, showing that they had been more consistently cordial than those between any other two great powers.

Italy, he said, had been invaded by almost every European nation except Britain, and the only Italian army ever to land in England had been that of Caesar, which had left an important legacy of language, manners and law and order.

The Renaissance had seen close relations between Britain and Italy, as was shown in the works of Shakespeare, who seemed to have an excellent knowledge of the Italian sea coast. Later, with the extension of travel, and the institution of the "grand tour," these relations had become ever more cordial.

The mark of Britain had been felt in Italy, where Beninck had been much honored as commander-in-chief.

Britain's influence in Italy had been definitely shown during the Restoration. The patriots of the Italian independence movement had found a warm sympathy and a kind refuge in England. Mazzini had spent much time there and Garibaldi had been received with unparalleled enthusiasm at the time of his visit in 1864.

GARIBOLDI

The action of two British warships had prevented Neapolitan vessels from firing on Garibaldi and his Thousand when they landed in Sicily, and the moral support of Russell had prevented the other European powers from intervening at the time of the great leader's crossing from the island to Italy.

When Italy entered the triple alliance, the lecturer said, it was on the understanding that she should not fight against Great Britain.

During the war public opinion had been divided on the matter of intervention, but two parties, the intellectuals and the syndicalist socialists of whom Mussolini was a member, had been strongly in support of it, and had won the day. Mussolini, and also d'Annunzio, Italy's soldier-poet, had seen active service during the fighting.

WAR CONTACTS

The contacts of British and Italian troops, first in Macedonia and later in Italy after the defeat of Caporetto, had never led to any friction such as was seen between allied armies. The relations of staff officers, and men of the two armies had always been of the most cordial.

After the war there had been some discussion between the two nations over the undignified grab game of the peace treaties, but this had soon been put right, and Italy and Britain had seen eye to eye on the matter of Germany's status in the post-war world, realizing that it was impossible to have lasting peace with one nation without the peace of the other.

Both countries had had the same views on the matter of reparation and debt cancellations. If all nations had followed these views there would not be the present tension in European politics.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

On the matter of the League of Nations their outlooks had not been quite the same, with Britain treating it as something sacred, while in Italy it meant a practical concrete way out of troubles. Italy had had no conception of the League Superstate.

The speaker asserted that he personally did not believe in the possibility of another war, but said that the situation would have been far less unpleasant if the whole world had followed the lead of Britain and Italy.

He stressed the value of the intellectual relations between the two nations, stating that the popularity of British literature was steadily increasing in Italy. Art exhibitions were also doing much to cement the friendship.

He expressed the hope that Canada's own school of art would be represented in an exhibition in Italy shortly. He also told his appreciation of the series of addresses of which he made part.

The speaker was introduced by Sir Charles Deane-Radcliffe, who spoke a few words on Signor Villari's career, and his personal acquaintance with him.

Duncan

Duncan, March 22.—The monthly meeting of the committee of the Cowichan Golf Club was held at the clubhouse on Monday. President C. R. Drayton occupied the chair.

The three-unit "gang" mower, recently purchased, is not considered adequate, and to save labor and gasoline the club decided to obtain two extra units and a frame.

A resolution was passed that in future the club's fixture list should be compiled before November 15, each year, in conformity with other clubs.

The ladies of the club will hold an open mid-island championship on April 9, 10 and 11, for which Admiral and Mrs. Bugeat have donated a very handsome cup. A mid-island championship for men will also be considered.

New members elected were Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wright, Miss E. Walcott and R. Jarrett, Chemainus.

Reports Presented at Annual Meeting To-day Shows Fine Accomplishments

Mrs. L. A. Genge, Regent, Returned to Office By Acclamation

"I congratulate you, not only on the work accomplished, but on the splendid spirit that has made the accomplishment a reality. After several years of difficulty and distress our order has gone on steadily, quietly and sympathetically with every department of its own work, and has never refused the appeal from the individual in need—no matter what the nature—nor other organizations asking for support. To me no further proof is needed to show our foundation is well and truly laid on the British principles of courage, integrity, loyalty and love."

So said Mrs. L. A. Genge, regent of the Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., in her address at the annual meeting of the chapter, held to-day in the New Thought Hall, Fort Street, and attended by many representatives of each of the seventeen primary chapters under its jurisdiction.

Mrs. Genge paid tribute to her fellow-officers for their untiring loyalty and devotion, and thanked all the chapters for their splendid co-operation at all times. Mrs. Genge was re-elected regent by acclamation.

SECRETARY'S REPORT
Mrs. J. Gordon Smith, the secretary, in her able resume of the year's activities, noted the growth of the Municipal Chapter from five primary chapters, when it was formed in June, 1912, to sixteen primary chapters and one junior chapter to date, with a total membership of 436. She recalled the evening party given by the regent, Mrs. Genge, in celebration of the "coming-of-age" last year.

In addition to participating in all historic and patriotic anniversaries, the chapter had celebrated Founder's Day in memory of the late Mrs. Clark Murray, had sponsored an exhibition of English china at the Hudson's Bay store, and the showing of the Prince of Wales film. Alexandra Rose Day had been held, netting $425 for child welfare work in the city, and at Christmas the chapter had distributed supplies to thirty-seven needy families of ex-service men.

Many appeals received generous support from the chapters under Municipal jurisdiction, the report noted. The women's workroom was especially well supported by primary chapters; a total of $45 had passed through the Municipal Chapter books for the year. Refreshments were served at the direction of Mrs. R. A. C. Grant with a number of Native Sons and daughters as helpers. Those playing were: Mrs. J. C. Newbury, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Campbell, Mrs. W. H. books and other gifts, a total of $63 having been spent for this purpose. A total of 551 calendars were sent to the various schools of the province; libraries, prizes, pictures and other gifts have also been sent to the various schools. Letters from the recipients, noted Miss Cooke. Her financial statement showed receipts from the various chapters, $1,167, which with the previous balance and interest brought the total to $1,421.48, of which the money expended was $1,321.10, leaving a balance of $100.38. Victoria College bursary, $50. Making a total of $1,344.

Miss Cooke also presented a comprehensive report as convener of the empire study committee, showing that the chapters had taken up this project with enthusiasm, arranging for many interesting lectures by well-known speakers.

Beauty Treatment
curtains

If you are discouraged about the way your curtains look, perhaps this experience of a Toronto woman will help you. "My living-room curtains were so gray and dull from dust, smoke and light that I hated to look at them. Yet they were perfectly good and I couldn't afford new ones. A druggist told me to dye them with Diamond Dyes. He said his wife had had splendid success with these dyes and that they really contained a greater amount of purest aniline, I used them and my curtains positively look like new—so beautifully bright and colorful!" Use Diamond Dyes for permanent dark colors by boiling and Diamond Tints for tinting light dainty shades without boiling. Both give superior results. At all drug stores. 15c.

Living Pictures Prove
Most Artistic Success

Musical Arts Society Enjoyed Delightful Programme Yesterday Afternoon

Famous Paintings Strikingly Reproduced at Shrine Hall; Musical Numbers

Some famous paintings came to life yesterday afternoon at the Shrine auditorium when, in one of the most artistic programmes of the season, the Victoria Musical Arts Society staged a series of tableaux vivants, interspersed with appropriate musical numbers.

The audience was one of the largest attending the afternoon recital this season, and the measure of their appreciation was evident in the insistent demand for encores.

Mrs. Harold Campbell, Mrs. Archie Willis and Mrs. Eva Baird, the convener of the programme, received many congratulations upon its artistic and the hope was expressed that the success which crowned their difficult task in arranging such an elaborate undertaking might merit the repetition of the programme in the near future. Miss Violet Wilson's commentaries on each picture and the artist added much to the interest of the living reproductions.

"RELIGIOUS" GROUP
Raphael's Del Gran Duca "Maddona" was the first of the series shown. Mrs. James Cameron posing beautifully, with the infant in her arms. The "religious" atmosphere of this picture was enhanced by the singing, off stage of Gounod's "Ave Maria" by Kathleen Lavell. The second picture was also on the devotional theme, showing Little Saint Bernard in a charmingly posed replica of "The Infant Samuel," by Sir Joshua Reynolds. The third picture in this group showed Betty Joan Keworth as "Cherry Ripe," her childish naïveté happily reflecting the spirit of the famous Millais painting.

The "devil-may-care" spirit of Frans Hals was splendidly conveyed in the first two pictures in the next group. As "The Little Player," Douglas Gillian was arresting in his vivid costume and expressive face, while Maquinta Daniels made a most "seductive" figure in her pose as "Portrait of a Young Woman." The third picture in this group was "Spanish Lady," by Goya, in which Miss Dallas Homer Dixon posed most effectively. Sargent's famous portrait of Ellen Terry in the role of Lady Macbeth was beautifully interpreted by Miss Peggy Edwards, who held the difficult pose most convincingly. Her medieval costume of green and gold making an excellent foil for her long, auburn braids.

The serenity and charm of old age as captured on canvas by one of the old masters and a great artist of the modern school was cleverly conveyed in the two pictures which formed the final group. Mrs. J. O. Cameron was a most dignified and noble figure as Rembrandt's "Portrait of an Old Lady," the "winged white cap and broad white ruff" of this Flemish subject being strikingly reproduced, while in the "Portrait of My Mother," by Whistler, the American artist, Mrs. G. A. Bucklin most convincingly recaptured the appeal of this well-known study.

A notable feature of the living pictures was the suitability of the models chosen, giving an indication of the meticulous care given to the preparation of the subjects by the committee in charge.

MUSICAL NUMBERS
Owing to the unavoidable absence through indisposition of Mrs. T. A. Rickard, her place on the programme was taken by Miss Margaret Wilson, who sang with vivacious charm in her clear soprano voice two appealing numbers, "Child's Prayer" and "Little Brother's Lullaby" (Rose). Kathleen Lavell, the other vocalist on the programme, possessed of a fresh, coloratura voice, sang most effectively "The Lass With the Delicate Air" (Arnel) and "Swedish Folk Song." Miss Sheila Conway gave admirable support at the piano to both singers.

Clad in ermines and panthelettes, two dainty little pupils of the Russian Ballet School, Christine Humble and Joan McKinnon, danced a minuet with childlike grace. A delightful instrumental trio composed of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Wade and Gordon Shaw closed the programme, their first number being the molto allegro movement from Mendelssohn's "Trio in D Minor," and their second, which was movingly beautiful, Dvorak's "Bongos My Mother Taught Me."

Mrs. W. A. Jamieson, the president, acted as chairman, and during her brief opening remarks paid tribute to the work of the committee responsible for the attractive programme.

PRICES TO RISE STEADILY IN U.S.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington, March 17.—Orthodox experts get a bad case of the willies as they contemplate the credit inflation possibilities of the Gold Reserve Act.

President Roosevelt just chuckles at that.

His optimism is reflected by his closest confidantes. To them, a gradual improvement in business conditions during the next few months seems as certain as the rising and setting of the well-known sun.

Roosevelt figures he has two holes.

First, that "danger" of credit inflation, which old-fashioned experts worry about to the extent that one said it might cause prices to rise 200 per cent, was just what he wanted.

Second, he feels he has the power of control through that $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund to be handled by the treasury. Perhaps you've never tried it, but you can do almost anything with two billion berries.

The act imposes few restrictions. The treasury is given central bank powers. One primary central bank power is control of credit flow.

That is the real administration answer to conservative insistence that the new federal reserve credit cannot be controlled.

Prices will rise gradually, but steadily, according to the plan. Artificial stimulation will be applied when necessary.

St. Mary's Guild Plan Bridge Tea

St. Mary's Guild will hold a silver tea in the home of Mrs. H. H. Beck, 401 Bay Road on Thursday, April 19. There will be a table of home cooking and a garden plant stall. Bridge is being arranged, and reservations for tables should be obtained from Mrs. Thornton Marshall, phone G 7297, as early as possible. Music will be provided, and a pleasant afternoon is assured to all who attend.

Why we believe in OVEN BAKING our Beans

Beans are good food any way you cook them. We have no quarrel with those who boil them. We do believe that by oven-baking our beans we make them more delicious to eat and easier to digest.

Every Fibre is COOKED

Heinz Beans are first thoroughly softened by long soaking in clean cold water. Then Heinz baking ovens dry-cook every bean through and through. It is this oven-baking that enables us to really saturate each dry, soft bean with rich delightful sauce. It is this oven-baking that makes Heinz beans so meaty and "munchy," so easy to digest.

The oldest way of Cooking

Oven-baking is the oldest way of cooking beans. Oven-baked beans are a treat we remember from childhood. When you go to your dealer's, look for Heinz Beans with the word OVEN-BAKED on the label. We believe they will delight you. Prices are attractive.

When "Suffragette" Was A Word That Produced
Both Jokes and Jamborees

The old Goldstream Hotel was the scene of many happy parties after the turn of the century. Goldstream itself was visited annually by many Sunday school parties which went by special train. The old hotel was destroyed by fire some years ago and recently was replaced by a modern structure. The party in the foreground contains a group of picnickers with Harry Maynard driving the double team.

This man and the queer, tank-like affair he is sitting on drew national attention on July 25, 1911. The man is Bobby Leach, and he got into the odd-looking steel barrel and went over Niagara Falls. He survived the experience unharmed—but notice how the barrel got battered.

Few women of the pre-war era got more notoriety, or suffered more for their convictions, than did Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, famous leader of England's militant suffragettes. This shows an incident which occurred in 1913. Confined to a nursing home, after forcible feeding in jail had undermined her health, she tried to flee and was intercepted by detectives. Here she is, in a state of semi-collapse in the arms of a friend, while a detective interrogates her just after she has left the nursing home. Shortly after the picture was taken she was carried off to jail again.

The first attempt ever made to fly across the Atlantic was made in this dirigible. Flimsy and tiny by modern standards, it was the last word in lighter-than-air craft in 1910, when the flight began. Commanded by the late Walter Wellman, who was accompanied by a crew of five, this ship—named The America—took off from Atlantic City on October 15, 1910. Three days later, after having traveled 1,000 miles, Wellman and his men had to abandon their ship, being rescued by a cargo steamer. The America sailed off and was never seen again.

He was so eccentric that all left-handers since his day have been supposed to be more or less goofy—but he was one of the greatest pitchers baseball has ever known. Meet the one and only Rube Waddell, who made baseball history back when Connie Mack was winning his spurs as a manager.

MAN'S INHUMANITY TO MAN

To the Editor:—It would be interesting to the public at large to hear the answers from the car conductors' union to the following questions: That by a number of the above body the making of their uniforms was sent east on account of cheapness; also that at recent conciliation board appointed by the government (and paid the citizens) that when conciliation with the east was attempted delegates from the Victoria union once answered that was impossible the standard of living was much

BOOGY-MAN OF THE CAMEL CARAVAN

Something with which to scare the kiddies is this expression on the face of Colonel (Lemuel Q.) Stoopengravel (right) as he and partner Budd (left) make their way through the streets of the city during one of the broadcasts of the Camel Caravan. higher in British Columbia. Believe it or not, the president of said union was one of the first to send his order east. If unions wish to retain public confidence and the right to demand conciliation boards, would it not be wise for them to remember where their bread and butter comes from? A letter some little time ago appeared in your columns from a committee of the local streetcar employees asking for greater patronage of the street cars or the part of the public and especially asking that motorists refrain from the practice of picking up pedestrians. Undoubtedly, the tact of the committee had been obtained before the publication of this letter. Indeed, it may have been inspired by those in authority. The people of Victoria appreciate the street car system and wish to see it succeed. At the same time they look for consistency on the part of the controlling corporation, and when that corporation appeals for local patronage and then turns around and gives contracts to firms operating in such a way that the actual work is done in eastern cities to the loss of Victoria workers, the reaction of the local public is not apt to be beneficial, to the said corporation.

I, for one, feel quite within my rights to use my car as I see fit.

RE FIREMEN

To the Editor:—I wonder how many of our citizens realize the number of hours the city firemen are on actual duty. Do they know they average twelve hours a day in the station, week in and week out, and are subject to duty call at any time otherwise when the city needs them, and cannot leave the city limits without permission of the chief? I can assure you that their task is not one of sitting down and waiting for the going to ring, as all firemen's windows, apparatus, etc., have to be scrubbed and cleaned every week, which keeps the men quite busy, and after every call, which means several more hours of extra cleaning, not only that but the two hours of morning drill to keep the men up to the efficiency in which they are kept. It also means hard and somewhat dangerous work, as has been shown on more than one occasion. Also do not forget the fact that these men never know when they are to get a night's rest, as sometimes they are called out two or three times a night, from warmth into cold, then into heat and water, then return to their stations water-soaked and cold, only to reload their hose wagons, reload chemical tanks, etc., before they can change and dry themselves again. Sometimes they do not get a chance to do this before being called out again.

I am sure that the request of these men should not be denied them, as we all know the efficiency of the chief, officers and men by the low fire-loss in Victoria, which is a credit to any city. After all, prevention is better than cure.

TEACHERS' WELFARE OFFICER

To the Editor:—With regard to the dismissal of the rural female teachers' welfare officer by Hon. G. M. Weir, I feel that the last word cannot possibly have been said.

Apart from any other consideration, has the hon. minister taken into account what the withdrawal of this safeguard of young women must mean to their parents?

These young teachers, finding themselves in isolated and remote parts of the province, are at the mercy of men of all calibre, who are appointed school trustees. Many have strong communistic tendencies and are able to make conditions very uncomfortable and distasteful for girls brought up in refined homes, who are quite unable to cope with such situations, unsupported by any other authority.

After the grievous tragedy of the suicide of such a girl, driven desperate by fear and misunderstanding, the very wise appointment was made of a woman eminently suited for the position of welfare officer, and many a parent's heart was relieved of the anxiety felt for a daughter, teaching in some lonely district, knowing that the dear one would now be protected and visited.

In my own knowledge there are cases where the trustees have ordered the teacher not to display the Union Jack in their school, and what can a girl, alone, do in such a case?

But if the welfare officer is by her side, or can be called to her support, armed with the authority of the government, the matter is very different, and Mr. School Trustee backs down.

To withdraw this safeguard is to revert to a condition which may result in another tragedy, and the mothers of rural teachers surely have a right to be heard?

I appeal to our woman member in the House to stand out in strong protest against any such a retrograde and dangerous procedure, and wish to do honor to Dr. Gillis and to Mr. Pooley for their courageous opposition to this dismissal.

FREEDOM

To the Editor:—The English

papers which arrived this week carry the report of the recent address to the British people over the radio of Mr. Stanley Baldwin on the subject of "Dictators." Some of the passages in it appear so pertinent to some of the current local discussions, that I quote them to you as follows:

"We are so accustomed to our freedom as to the air we breathe that we take it for granted. That freedom did not drop down on us like manna from heaven; it has been fought for from the beginning of our history, and the blood of men far better than ourselves has been shed to obtain it. It is the result of centuries of resistance to the power of the Executive. . . . That freedom was mirrored and crystallized in the House of Commons itself.

For us in this country to think of having a dictatorship—the popular form of government in many countries to-day—would on our part be an act of consummate cowardice, an act of surrender, the throwing in of our hands, a confession that we were unable to govern ourselves, that we could sit back, our strength and our courage alike gone—sit back and watch our dictator do his work.

"In this country we do not want what I will call the get-rich-quick mind.

"I admit a dictator can do much. When in power he may do everything. A dictatorship is like a giant beech tree—very magnificent to look at in its prime, but nothing grows underneath it. The whole tendency of it is to squeeze out the competent and independent man. . . . Our people are independent. They have been accustomed to taking part in the government of their locality or their country and they realize that the ultimate responsibility for law and order is in their hands."

LENT SERIES IS COMPLETED

Dean C. S. Quinton Delivers Lecture on "Christ and Human Suffering"

Completing a series of six lectures on "Books for Lenten," Dean C. S. Quinton yesterday evening addressed a gathering of 200 in the Memorial Hall on Dr. Stanley Jones' "Christ and Human Suffering."

The lecturer supported the stand of Dr. Jones that even the righteous had no claim to immunity from suffering. He remarked that petted children often became spoiled. The same was true about adults.

Relief of suffering, he said, was one of Christ's doctrines, but that did not remove everyone from the possibility of suffering.

The Dean referred to the use of prayer by some as a puny endeavor to manipulate the Almighty for purely personal gain, adding that if prayers of that type were answered they would come to be regarded as fire insurance policies. Much, he said, was accomplished through the power of prayer, but not everything.

"Christ did not teach us how to escape all suffering, but to consecrate it," the lecturer asserted. No longer, however, were scourges and plagues allowed to run their courses while Christians stood idly by, believing the pestilence to be the wrath of God breaking upon the world.

From the book it was read that a real Christian experience "will deliver you from all fear; make you absurdly happy, and get you into trouble."

Dean Quinton highly recommended Dr. Jones' book, saying it was sane and sound in its treatment of the Christian attitude toward suffering.

NEW TIMER IS DEvised

Clocker Devised By Saskatoon Man 20 Times More Accurate Than Watch

Saskatoon, March 22.—It will be possible to clock the speed records of the athletes at the Universities of Saskatchewan within one-hundredth of a second if the electric timer devised by Dr. E. L. Harrington, head of the department of physics there, is used. An ordinary stop-watch is only reliable to one-fifth of a second, but this device which applies the principle of the electric clock to the accurate measuring of periods of time, is twenty times more accurate.

The alternating current of the Saskatoon electric lighting system accurately controlled by a master clock at the power house, gives 120 impulses per second. A twelve-toothed wheel, placed between magnets attached to the city system, will revolve exactly ten times in a second as each tooth of the wheel when revolving in harmony gets its pull from the current.

In Dr. Harrington's device, a mechanical counter like a speedometer, which is attached to the wheel, automatically records the time between two pressures on a clutch. It can be read within a tenth of a revolution or one-hundredth of a second.

Half a dozen of the timers have been made and students are using them in place of stop watches in a variety of experiments.

The agriculture committee's report asking for an inquiry into the spread in seed prices was received by the House.

A Mystery Novel

By K. S. DAIGER

(Copyright by Macrae-Smith Company)

Then the post hit me, a merciful kindly blow, rescuing me from this nightmare of horror and sending me into a world of oblivion, a merciful world.

Many hours later I revived, and before I had opened my eyes or regained more than a glimmering of consciousness, I knew that something terrible had happened. Don't wake up. "Go to sleep. Go to sleep!" said something inside me. "Something terrible has happened. Don't wake up."

But I did. I opened my eyes and there, of all the impossible people, I saw the last person whom I should have expected.

It was broad daylight. I was in my own room, in my own bed, and there beside me sat Kirk Judson. He had a bandage over one eye, and it gave him an indescribably ludicrous expression.

I smiled and Judson stood up. "You're all right, Kay?" he cried in relief.

And then I remembered. Captain Andy—he's dead? Judson shook his head. "Not a bit of it. Up and at work and worried to death about you."

"Alive, but still unconscious. He's revived a couple of times but goes right off again. Somebody gave him a terrible wallop on the back with the end of a pistol."

Concerning McNalley, I did not ask. Poor old fellow! He had given me a good story many a time, and the whole department had loved him. There would be one empty place there, indeed!

"Who killed him, Judson?" I asked sadly. The detective shook his head. "I've no idea, Kay. This is the way it happened as far as we can do it out. I was coming up the path. The front door was wide open which struck me as funny, because it was raining cats and dogs. Just as I was starting up for the porch, I saw a man throw himself through the library window, and I heard your calls of 'Shoot him! Head him off!'

"He was coming directly toward me, so I simply stepped behind a bush, took aim, and fired. I never dreamed it was one of us. God! I'm a dead-shot. . . I missed killing the Inspector by only a couple of inches!"

"The next minute you were right on me. I knew you were one of the officers—one of our party—but I couldn't get the words out."

Judson's concern was real. The perspiration was thick on his forehead and he looked haggard and anxious.

"Then you don't know who killed Mac?" I asked weakly. "You know as much about it as I do or as any of the rest of us."

"What happened in the house?" I asked weakly. "We can only guess. Somebody has been up in Mrs. Paige's boudoir. The door had been opened, apparently with a skeleton key and a little cedar chest on her table broken open. Its contents were all over the floor. But Anderson, who had examined it already, says that nothing seems to be missing. And they can't get a single new finger-print."

"We think that McNalley must have heard whoever it was working up there and started up the steps. The intruder heard him coming and shot at him from the top of the stairs. Mac seems to have fallen backward over the bannister into the hall below where we found him."

"The man ran down the steps to make his escape and met Carroll coming from the door of the library. He hit him with the butt of his rod, and locked the library door—which gave him time to get away—God, he must have had nerve!"

"Then Carroll saw whoever it was."

"No, that's the worst of it. He says the light was out in the hall and as he stepped out something

"Who is talking about blows?" growled a voice in the bushes. Uncle Wiggily nearly jumped out of his skin, he was so surprised. "I spoke of a blow," he said rather timidly, for Uncle Wiggily was a gentle soul.

"Did you know," went on the voice, "that I am one of the best blowers around here?"

"Oh, are you the north wind?" asked the rabbit, for well he knew that this cold breeze was very strong. "No, I am not the north wind," was the growling answer.

"Are you the west wind?" asked the rabbit. "For the west wind is also strong and breezy."

"No, I am not the west wind," was the growling answer. "Are you the east or south winds, please?" asked the rabbit, trying to be very polite for now he began to guess who was growling.

"No, no," howled the voice in answer. "I am no wind at all, but I am a good blower. I am the Woosie Wolf!"

"Oh, ho!" cried the rabbit gentleman, wishing he had remained at his bungalow. "So you are the Woosie Wolf?"

"Yes, and a good blower! Don't forget that! A better blower than the north, south, east or west wind. I blow pig houses over."

"Oh, yes, I heard about that," said the rabbit. "You blew over the wooden house, didn't you?"

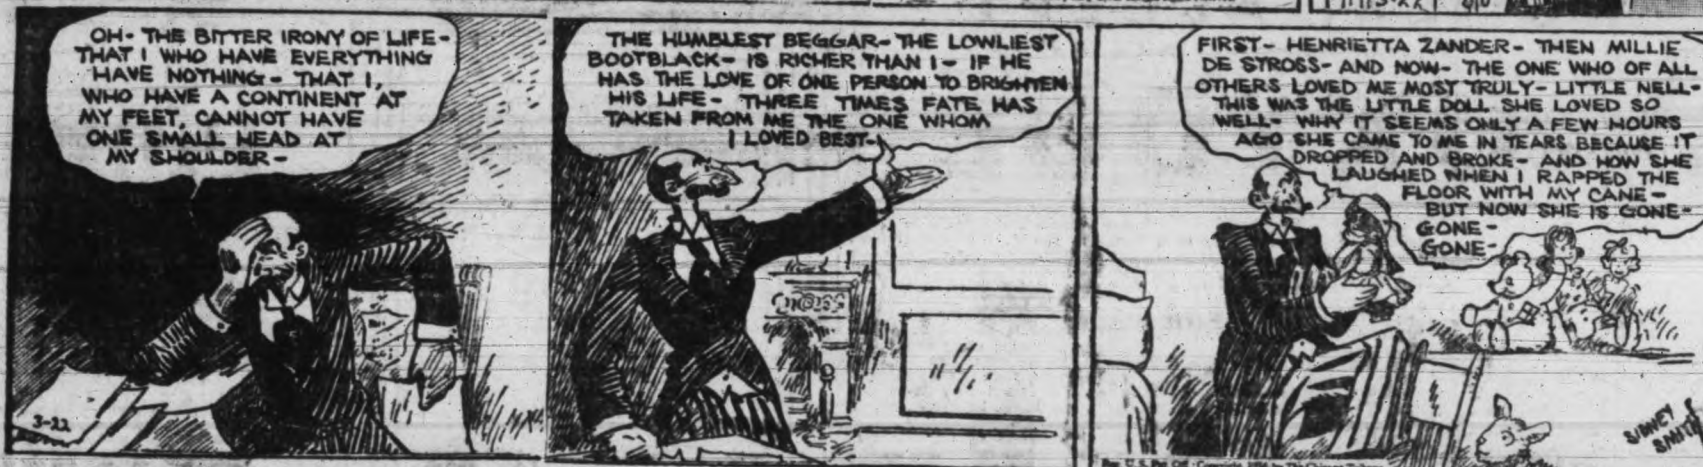

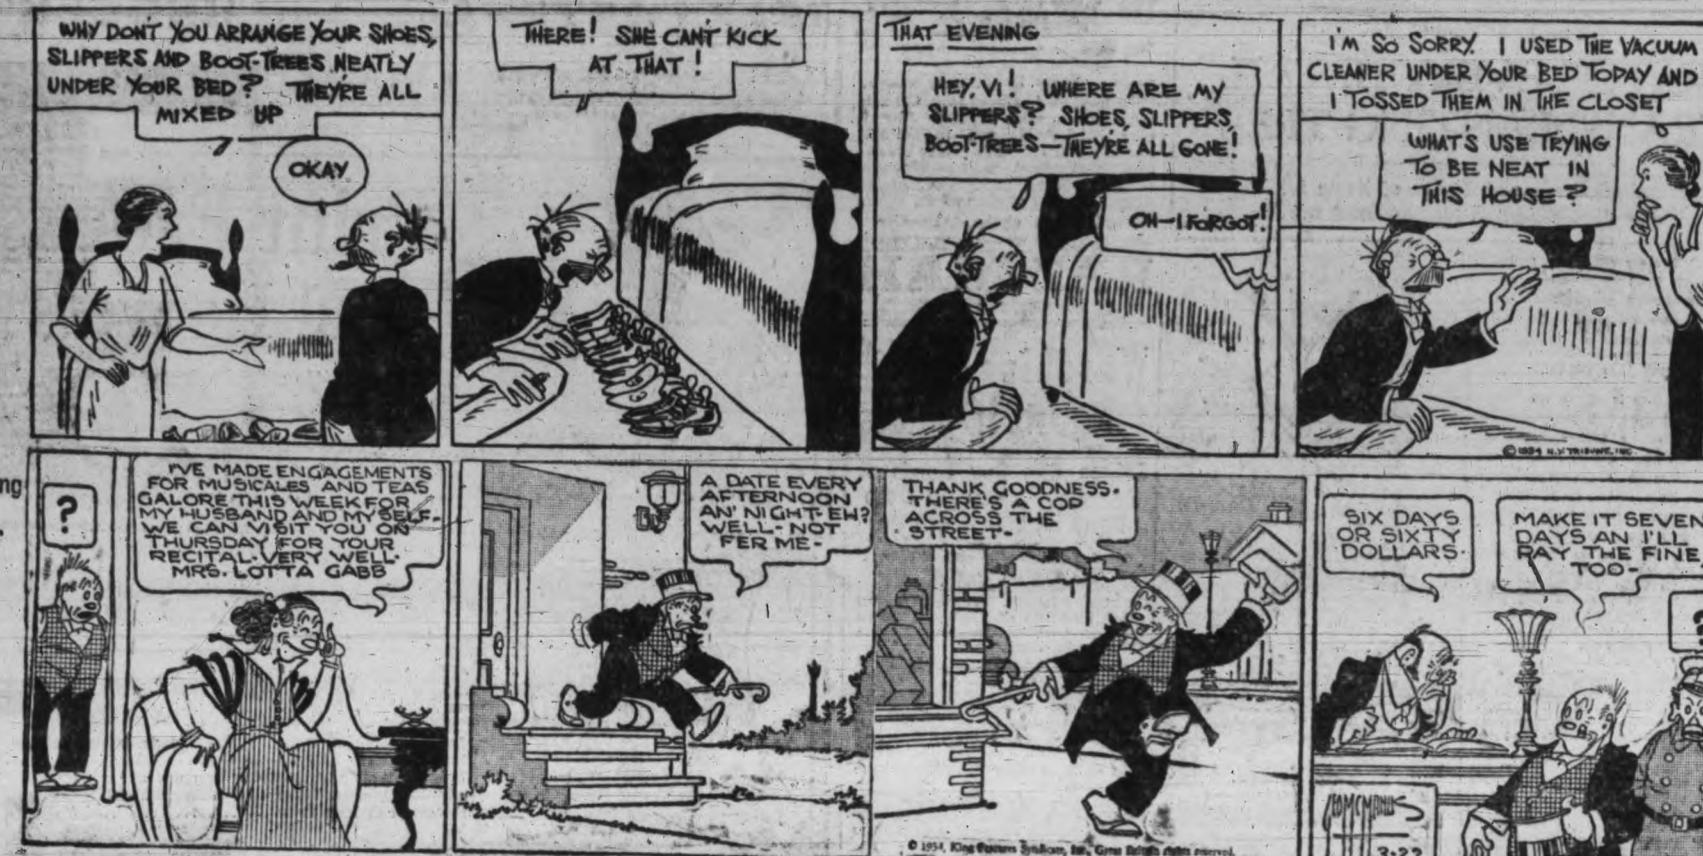

"And the straw house!" growled the Wolf. "Don't forget that! Now I am going to blow you into my den and I'll nibble you." The Wolf drew in a deep breath. He was going to blow. Uncle Wiggily looked at the dust on the path and a cunning idea came to Mr. Longears.

"Can you blow dust?" he asked the Woosie Wolf. "Of course I can," was the growling answer. "Let me see you," said Uncle Wiggily.

The Wolf took a deep breath and blew hard into the dust. And such a cloud of it arose that it hid Uncle Wiggily from sight and behind the dust cloud which hid him from the Wolf, the rabbit hopped safely home. He, he, he! So this teaches us it is not always good to be a big blower. And if the gas stove will make some stockings for the legs of the kitchen chair so it won't catch cold, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's tooter toot.

"All it needs now," said Uncle Wiggily, speaking to himself, as he often did, "all it needs now is a bit of blow and there'd be a dust storm around here. Spring has certainly dried the wet ground out very much. Yes, a good blow would do it."

Uncle Wiggily and the Wolf's Blow

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Spring was now in Woodland, near the Orange Ice Mountain where Uncle Wiggily lived in his hollow stump bungalow. And, speaking of the Orange Ice Mountains, they were beginning to melt a sort of cold cream, for the weather was getting warmer.

Uncle Wiggily had gone out to most spring and though he had not exactly seen a beautiful lady with flowers in her hair, which is how the poets and makers of music picture the season, the rabbit gentleman had found some Arbutus flowers, which he took home to his wife, And Arbutus is the surest sign of spring.

"Are you going out again?" asked Uncle Wiggily's wife as she saw him, on the first day after spring, once more sliding down the stair banister rail.

"Oh, yes, I think so," he answered. "What for?" she wanted to know. "To see how different things look in the woods and fields now that spring is here," said the rabbit.

"Well, be careful you don't catch cold," warned his wife. "Spring colds are the worst kind, so Dr. Fossun says."

"I'll be careful," promised Mr. Longears.

So he twinkled his pink nose and away he hopped over the fields and through the woods. This time he was looking for nothing special. He was just hopping around to see what he could see like the bear who came up over the mountain last summer.

"Spring has certainly made a great change around Woodland," said Uncle Wiggily, as he hopped over the fields and through the woods. "The snow has almost gone and some of the paths are quite dusty."

He was, just then, hopping along a path through the forest and the rabbit gentleman noticed that his paw kicked up quite a bit of dust as a horse does when he is trotting along a country lane in the middle of summer.

"All it needs now," said Uncle Wiggily, speaking to himself, as he often did, "all it needs now is a bit of blow and there'd be a dust storm around here. Spring has certainly dried the wet ground out very much. Yes, a good blow would do it."

Your Back Yard Garden

WATCH EVERY DETAIL TRANSPLANTING TREE

Good Underdrainage and Plenty of Room for Roots
Among First Essentials for Successful Growth

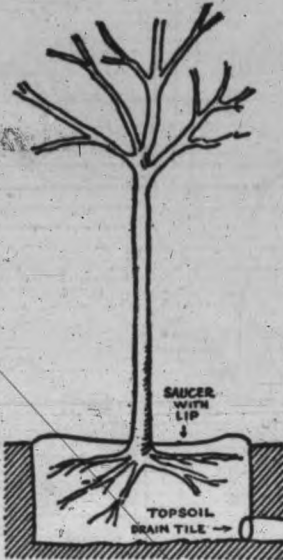

This is the eleventh of a series of articles by Donald Gray, famous landscape consultant, on how to make a beautiful garden of your back yard.

By DONALD GRAY

Planting a tree is about the simplest task in gardening, yet few trees really are given a fair chance, because their transplanting is not done carefully. It is not always a question of not knowing how to do it right; it is usually a matter of not being particular about the details.

There are new theories abroad, each year, of some sort of magic stunt to insure rapid growth, and maybe many of these unusual theories will work in some cases. But for the most part the practical rules will bring the best results in the long run.

Here are these rules:
There must be underdrainage. If the soil is heavy, water must not be allowed to stand around the roots. If it is impossible to run farm drain lines to a down spout drain at the house or into a sewer line, then make a dry well ten or fifteen feet from the tree hole and run a tile from the tree pit to this dry well.
Such a well is made by digging a deep hole and filling it with porous material, such as rocks or cinders. The bottom of such a well must be deeper than the bottom of the tree pit.

Be sure that all broken roots of the tree are cut off and that the hole is wide enough to spread out the good roots. Do not cram them in a narrow hole.
Fill in around the roots with good fine topsoil and be sure to leave no air pockets. Use water to settle the ground around the fine roots.

Plant the tree at exactly the same height as it grew in its original location. Make a saucer of earth on top with a rim on the outside of the hole. This saucer will collect the water and let it run into the ground. A mound of earth at the trunk will do the opposite.
Trim back and thin out the top of the tree so that about half of last year's growth is taken off. This reduction of top will equalize the loss of roots in the transplanting.

Brace the trunk with wires or a stake, so that wind does not sway the tree.
Never sprinkle the ground lightly; water thoroughly once or twice a week in dry weather.

Warships Carry Department Stores

Sailors Can Buy Goods at Bargain Prices in Deep
Down Bargain Basement

London, March 22.—When descriptive writers are "let loose" in the navy, they always find plenty of scope for their talents. Battleships are called all kinds of wonderful things—almost anything, in fact, except a "department store."

But, strange enough, a "department store" is one of the things a battleship is to-day. A naval correspondent explains that the great ships of the fleet are, among other things, vast floating dry goods stores, "stocking everything from a needle to an anchor that could possibly be required during the cruise."

Each ship has its "bargain basement." It is deep down in the ship and is reached by descending flights of vertical steel stairs.
Here the sailor, who in these days generally takes pride in his appearance, can renew his clothes at real bargain prices. He can buy socks for seven pence a pair, a summer vest for 1s 9d, an oilskin for 9s 6d and for 3s 6d, a blue rain coat, which ashore would cost probably three guineas. He can also buy at absurdly low prices lengths of materials for his outer clothes to be made up to measure by his own tailor ashore.

There is no hard and fast limit to the quantities that may be bought, except that imposed by the petty officers in charge, who may suspect that a wholesale order of socks, for instance, may be intended to benefit persons who "are not in the service," are not entitled to its bargain prices.

Then there is the hardware department, stocking every conceivable article that might be needed in the ship's workshop.

In the wireless department there are expensive valves, transformers and the hundred and one things required to ensure efficiency of communication, and in the "optical" department are reflectors—each costing many pounds—for the giant searchlights.

The responsibility for checking and maintaining these vast stores rests with the paymaster commander, who keeps an all-the-year-round stock-taking, so that his ledgers can tell him at any moment the exact state of the ship's equipment.

The registrar, the court ordered, must issue the letters on tender of $4.50 for probate duties and fees.
The application was made by C. W. Brazier.

Mrs. Short left a gross estate of £129,801, of which $22,000 is in British Columbia. The beneficiaries, sons, daughters and grandchildren of the deceased, reside in England.

Toronto and Canadiens See Action To-night In Hockey Finals

THE SPORTS MIRROR

FOR THE FOURTH consecutive season hockey writers in National Hockey League cities have voted Lester Patrick the man most fitted for the position of coach on Canadian Press all-star teams. In his New York Rangers engage in Stanley Cup play-offs for the eighth straight season, records at Madison Square Garden reveal the veteran champion from a monetary viewpoint have enjoyed the greatest year since hockey was introduced to Gotham back in 1926.

Why this steady increase in patronage and popularity? The answer is simple. "The answer is simple," said Patrick. "Beforehand we guaranteed our patrons a good show, fast, wide open hockey. We deliver and the fans go home satisfied they received their money's worth." Lester closed his interview by publicly announcing himself as not particularly in favor of the plan suggested for the reconstruction of the league into one group as it was back in 1925-26.

The season in which Ace Bailey's National League career was ended by a collision with Eddie Shore will be written into the records as one of the most tragic in hockey's history. Death persistently hovered over the sport since one of the fastest in the world, it did not take Bailey but it claimed three other lives. For the ten days Bailey's life hung by a thread in a Boston hospital, the hockey world suddenly faced the fact that a game considered no more dangerous than football, lacrosse or boxing could kill. The Toronto right wing star fought his way back to health, but hockey had not forgotten it could kill.

Hardly the big league player regained his feet than Andy Ritchie, a member of the Atlantic City Sea Gulls, United States amateur champion, took a fatal tumble during a game at the New Jersey resort. He fell on the point of one of his own skates and died before the injury. Exactly a month after Ritchie, who played with the Toronto United States club, died of a heart attack, a year-old William Ruppelle, an Ottawa schoolboy, died from injuries received six days previously while playing on an outdoor rink in the city capital. He had crashed into the boards and the butt-end of his stick had been jammed into his abdomen.

Accidents of these types might have happened in other years, but they had not. The roughness that some critics said was keeping hockey from having anything to do with either death. Harvey Robertson died, however, from injuries received in a rough game. Robertson skated into the ice when he collided with an opposing player during a game between Leduc and Wetskiw. The two players, who were named in the Leduc game, were named in the Wetskiw game. The Leduc player was killed. The Wetskiw player was injured. The Leduc player was killed. The Wetskiw player was injured.

In some respects the Bailey and Robertson accidents were similar. In neither case was possession of the puck at stake. Shore, after being thrown into the boards in the Toronto defense area, charged out and collided with Bailey, who did not see the Boston defenseman coming. In the Leduc game, Robertson skated into Kristien, Wetskiw's defense player, while some distance from the puck. In falling, the back of his head struck the ice. The named in Alberta had been rough before that. There had been a dispute over a goal and the Wetskiw team had left the ice. When Leduc agreed to allow the goal, they returned. Hessler, a Leduc forward, was checked hard by Kristien and fell to the ice. It was here that Robertson made his fatal charge into Kristien.

Many hockey officials do not regard the unprecedented death toll this season as any sign the game has become too rough. It was no rougher, several said, than last year's when the death of George Green, playing in a bank league game at Rose Isle, Man., was struck over by a flying puck and fell dead.

Until this season, the known deaths resulting from accidents received in hockey games totalled only four. Now it has reached seven. Ace Bailey and Henri (Red) Braccanier, former Melfort, Sask., student who played this season with Baltimore Orioles, had narrow escapes.

Braccanier was the last victim of the string. In a game at Atlantic City on March 9, he was bodychecked to the ice and his neck was broken. His condition was serious for several days.

Miss Megan Taylor, the fourteen-year-old British figure skating champion, is destined to become the figure skating champion of the world, according to one of her rivals. Miss Vivi-Anne Hulten, the Swedish champion, who won the international figure skating championship at Helsinki, and was second to Miss Taylor in the international championship at Oslo, stated that she thought that Miss Megan Taylor, who has been world champion for the last eight years, has a better chance than Miss Taylor would be the next champion.

The Finnish press also hail Miss Taylor as the coming champion. She was actually leading at the end of the compulsory figures in the international meeting at Helsinki when she had to retire owing to a chill.

SOCCER PRACTICE

A workout of the Victoria City first and second division teams will be held tonight at the Victoria Sports Ground at 8 o'clock. All players are asked to turn out.

Leafs Open Drive Against Detroit For N.H.L. Title

Meet at Toronto in First of Five-game Series For League Championship

Canadiens Will Tackle Chicago

Toronto, March 22.—The team that "should" win, Toronto Maple Leafs, will get down to facts to-night by facing Detroit Red Wings in the first game of the National Hockey League play-offs for the league championship. Thirteen thousand people, most of whom believe the Canadian section winners should overpower the Wings, will be there to see what happens.

So superior to the opposition they rolled up a big lead in mid-season and then merely coasted through the rest of the schedule, the Leafs will do no more breezing. The squadron of Jack Adams' finished fast and was expected to travel at the same top speed in the play-offs.

The first two games will be played here, the second Saturday. Then the teams move into Detroit to finish the best out of five game series.

NO INJURIES There wasn't an injury in either camp to-day.

Prospects were the Leaf "kid" line of Jackson, Joe Primeau and Charlie Conacher would start against the ranking Red Wing set of Herbie Lewis, Calgary, Cooney Weiland and Larry Aurie.

In order to provide his forwards with every ounce of scoring punch, Manager Adams has moved Eddie Goodfellow from his defence post to centre.

The American division team is confident it will hold its own in the play-offs.

Montreal, March 22.—Second chapter of the National Hockey League play-off series here to-night when the Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens clash in the first game of their total goal series.

On paper, Canadiens hold an edge on attack and Chicago on defence. The two clubs enter the series. Chicago has one of the best defences in the league while Canadiens count on fast combination wingers.

Alon Conacher and his sidekick on defence, backstop Charlie Gardiner in goal, make up a barrier difficult to penetrate. Chicago is a better team than the one Canadiens met in the Stanley Cup final in 1931.

Canadiens hope to achieve victory over Hawks and continue on in the quest of their fifth year of possession of the cup. They won it in 1915-16, again in 1923-24, and took it twice in succession, in 1929-30 and 1933-34.

CRIBBAGE TOURNAMENT

The cribbage tournament listed for to-morrow evening at the Britannia branch Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., has been cancelled until further notice.

Yesterday's results and to-night's draw follow: Women's singles final—Mrs. Reid 21, Mrs. Cruickshanks 20. Women's doubles final—Mrs. Bryant and Miss Kirklin 18, Misses Ivy and Elsie Summers 17. Men's singles final—P. W. Palmer 21, Pomeroy 11. Men's doubles semi-final—Pearson and Heming 25, McMillan and Oliver 11.

Dodgers Sign Hack Wilson

Orlando, Fla., March 22.—Hack Wilson, Brooklyn Dodger outfielder, signed his 1934 contract yesterday for an unannounced salary, General Manager Bob Quinn said.

Al Lopez, catcher, is now the lone Dodger holdout.

GOLDEN AND BURKE FIRST

Capture Foursome Golf Event at Augusta; Jones-Somerville Well Down

Augusta, Ga., March 22.—The first competitive honors yesterday in the big golfing jamboree here went to the veteran Bill Burke, Cleveland, former United States open champion, and John Golden, Noroton, Conn., victors in the foursome event serving as a preliminary to-day at the Augusta national links.

Playing alternate shots, Burke and Golden combined to post a score of 32-35, 67, one under par, and capture the competition by a single stroke.

The pros had things all their own way, as Bobby Jones, plainly off his putting game on the eve of his comeback, did no better than 38-38, 76 in partnership with the former holder of the United States amateur title, C. R. Sandy Somerville, London, Ont.

SAILORS WIN CUP SOCCER

Defeat Maccabees 4 to 2 in Rennie and Taylor Trophy Match

Showing a complete reversal of the form they displayed last week, the Navy yesterday afternoon defeated the Maccabees 4 to 2 in a Rennie and Taylor Cup football fixture at Heywood Avenue. It was the only midweek soccer loop game carded. Played under ideal conditions the game drew a large following. The victory advanced the sailors to the semi-final round of the cup series.

The Navy were the better team and deserving of victory. Their front line displayed considerably more finish than that of the Maccabees, and was always dangerous. On the other hand, the losers did a lot of wild kicking even when close to the goal.

WALKER SCORES Five minutes from the opening blast of the whistle the Navy went in the lead when Walker's long shot from the left wing hit the inside of the far upright and bounced into the goal.

Navy made the score 2 to 0 in their favor twenty minutes later when Marr headed the leather into the net after Sweet had taken a corner kick.

Maccabees broke away almost immediately following the centre and garnered their first marker when Tommy Graves headed the ball home after Newell's fine cross from the left wing.

Taking up the offensive the sailors ended the first half scoring when Marr tapped the ball past Wilhmurst after Walker had crossed from the left wing.

MACCABEES SLICE LEAD With the resumption of play following the interval the Maccabees fought with renewed vigor and sliced the Navy lead when Roberts scored, following a pass from Newell, two minutes after the half got under way.

About midway through this session Caldwell, sailor goalie, was injured in diving for the ball, and play was halted for a few minutes to allow him to recover.

Bennallack, sailors' centre forward, netted the final marker of the match shortly before full time, when he hooked the ball over the fullback's head and drove it into the goal. It was a clever piece of work and one of the best goals of the game.

Alcock refereed. The teams follow: Navy—Caldwell, McDonald, Stone, Hall, Dovey, Hutton, Sweet, Marr, Bennallack, Roberts and Walker. Maccabees—Wilhmurst, Speller, Clarke, Fieldhouse, Wallis, Hill, W. Graves, Roberts, T. Graves, Ross and Newell.

Moncton Hawks In College Wins

Canada's Senior Hockey Champions Impressive in Scoring 3 to 1 Victory Over Collegians; Fort William Plays Winnipeg Monarchs To-night

Moncton, March 22.—Impressive spread among Moncton's sport fans to-day that they had seen Canada's 1934 Allan Cup champions in action here yesterday evening—and that the team is the same one which won the cup in 1933—Moncton's powerful Hawks from the Maritime Provinces.

Outclassing the pride of Quebec, McGill University, for fifty-five of the sixty minutes of their game yesterday evening, Moncton took a 3 to 1 lead.

The two goals looked huge for the goal-keeping ability—especially when the Hawks scored three goals in the first half. The first goal was scored by the Hawks in the first half.

Officers for the coming season were elected at the annual meeting of the Vancouver Island Tennis League held yesterday evening in the offices of Dr. E. W. Book. E. F. Le Quesne, Langford, was named president. R. E. Corfield, vice-president, and Stan Holman, secretary-treasurer.

Charles Swaine, B. C. Nicholas and C. F. Todd were elected honorary vice-presidents, and Dr. E. W. Book was named honorary president.

Final arrangements for the present season's play and the league's opening date will be made at the next meeting to be held on Wednesday, April 11, in Dr. Book's offices. All of last year's clubs and others intending to enter are asked to attend the meeting.

Entries are now being accepted by Secretary Holman for the men's B division, the third division, which is comprised of the women's and men's doubles, and the mixed matches; and also the special division, which will operate during week days. By Robert Edgren Grand National To Be Run To-morrow

Hundreds of Thousands Will Witness Great English Steeplechase at Aintree; Thirty-two Likely to Start; Several Changes in Riders

Canadian Press Liverpool, Eng., March 22.—It will be a sad day for the bookies if one of the favorites wins to-morrow's renewal of the Grand National steeplechase over the famous Aintree course of four and one-half miles with its thirty-two steep jumps.

Playon, winner of Wednesday's Lincolnshire Handicap, has been coupled up in many big "doubles" with the outstanding candidates for the gruelling steeplechase, and if Golden Miller, Gregalach or another of the best-fancied choices for the big steeplechase finish on top in the gruelling grind to-morrow there will be woe in the ranks of the book-making fraternity.

But the favorites rarely win in the Grand National, the most arduous of all horse races, and it will be no precedent if some 100-to-1 shot passes the finish line ahead.

The influx of visitors has already started, some of them from far ports of the world. Hundreds of thousands will be on hand for the race. Only the English Derby itself rivals the Grand National in popularity.

FRANCOLINO SCRATCHED The field was reduced to thirty-two to-day by the scratching of the lightly-weighted Francolino, because of an injured leg.

Several late changes in riders were also announced, along with selection of jockeys for several horses previously unassigned.

Pringle replaced Fish as rider on Kilbuck and Slater replaced Cundell on Fortitude. Pigott was given the mount of Blue Peter. Pigott was selected to ride Slater, J. Goswell to ride Prince Cherry and E. Brown to ride Apostasy.

STARTERS Latest revised list of probable starters shows thirty-two ready to face the gruelling course. With weights, jockeys and owners they are as follows: (a Gentleman rider), Gregalach, 175 lbs., Parry, Mrs. M. A. Gamble, Richmond H., 173 lbs., Speck, J. H. U.B.C. CREWS MEET HUSKIES

Will Engage in Pair of Races on Lake Washington Canal on Saturday

Seattle, March 21.—Originally booked as an informal rowing regatta between the crews of British Columbia and Washington, next Saturday's race on the Lake Washington canal has taken on the aspects of a big league regatta.

Addition yesterday of a preliminary race together with one new entry in the main events brought the competitive field to six crews.

In the feature the U.B.C. outfit will compete against Coach Tom Bolles' first yearling eight and Coach Polly Parrot's lightweight variety. That argument will start at 8 o'clock.

The preliminary will be between the second lightweight shell and the second and third freshman boats.

As in years past Coach Bolles' rowers will rely on overhauled favorites, while the Canadians should stand an excellent chance of downing Parrot's 150 pounders.

It should be a test of speed rather than stamina. Scheduled to start off Laurelhurst Point, the fragile barks will finish at the western end of the canal, a distance of little over one mile.

Pearson In Double Win Over Metcalfe

Brilliant Canadian Sprinter Heads U.S. Star to Tape in Sixty and Forty-Yard Dashes at Hamilton Event; Hank Cieman Sets World Record

Hamilton, March 22.—Bert Pearson, Westdale Collegiate sprinter, who ran on the 1932 Canadian Olympic team, mastered the world's fastest human, Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette University, twice here yesterday evening to steal nearly all the glory at the ninety-first Highlanders' Athletic Association indoor track games.

The twenty-year-old Hamilton schoolboy flashed to a brilliant triumph over the great colored sprinter in the sixty-yard dash to break Metcalfe's long string of victories over international dashmen. Only once since he was beaten at the Los Angeles Olympic Games by Eddie Tolson and Metcalfe been led to the tape.

Pearson broke on top and led his giant rival home in 6.5 seconds, three-tenths of a second slower than the world record, frequently equaled by Metcalfe. Later in the evening officials sent the pair against each other in a special forty-yard dash. Again Pearson triumphed, equalling the Canadian record of 4.8 seconds.

HALL IS THIRD
Edwin Hall, University of Kansas, was third in both sprints. Metcalfe finished at Pearson's shoulder each time. Until yesterday evening, the Marquette star had been unbeaten during the indoor season. He easily won the United States championship at New York recently.

The smashing double victory of Pearson even overshadowed the featured 1,000-yard event in which Glen Cunningham, of Kansas, United States indoor and outdoor mile champion, defeated the veteran, Phil Edwards, of McGill University. The Kansas star set a new Canadian record of 2 minutes 12.3 seconds, nearly two seconds slower than Edwards' world outdoor mark.

NETS WORLD RECORD
Hank Cieman, Toronto, Canadian walking titleholder, set a new world mark for the mile walk, breaking the mark of 6 minutes 28 seconds established in 1911 by George Goulding, famous Canadian heel and toe artist. Cieman's time was 6:23.7. It also bettered by a tenth of a second the world outdoor record set by Goulding in 1910.

Cunningham, fresh from his board track campaign in the United States, finished with a great burst of speed to defeat Edwards by twenty-five yards over the 1,000-yard route. William Daley, Detroit University, was third.

All-star Canadian relay teams scored victories over Marquette teams in the half mile and mile. Pearson himself anchored the Canadian half mile squad.

Betty Taylor, Hamilton women's hurdles champion, trounced a select field in the fifty metres low hurdles, winning from Aida Wilson and Bory Atkins, of Toronto, in 7.8 seconds.

BALL GOSSIP
Biloxi, Miss.—The master minds of Washington Senators were ready today to do a bit of self-congratulating. Goslin with some misgiving in a trade with Detroit, came through with a home run, another hit and three runs batted in during yesterday's 11 to 1 trouncing of the Yankees by the regulars.

Port Myers, Fla.—Connie Mack, who scattered Philadelphia Athletics of last year to the baseball winds, is reported arranging another trade. Goslin says he will obtain Bob Weir, a left-handed pitcher, and in exchange probably give Lou Finney, outfielder.

Winter Haven, Fla.—Manager Jimmy Wilson's prediction that the Phillies would hit is coming true. Despite those twenty-one scoreless innings at the start of "Grapefruit League" competition, their 3 to 2 victory over Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday ended with three Phils on bases and two out. Leslie Munns walked Ethan Allen to force in the winning run.

Sarasota, Fla.—The Boston Red Sox journey to Bradenton today for a go at the St. Louis Cardinals.

LIONS SQUARE ICE PLAY-OFF
Vancouver Defeats Calgary 7 to 3 in Second of North-west League Final

Vancouver, March 22.—Calgary Tigers and Vancouver Lions were all square today in their play-offs for the Northwestern Professional Hockey League championship.

Saving was the best man on the ice yesterday evening. His defense work was perfection. He initiated all three of his team's scoring rushes and a half dozen besides that failed only because of the stellar performance of Johnny Clark in the Vancouver nets.

Youthful Clint Smith, centre, and Sammy MacAdam, crack left winger, provided the scoring punch for Lions, nothing between them five of their team's goals.

The teams meet here to-morrow night and again Monday with a fifth game, if necessary, on Wednesday.

CONACHER BROTHERS ON FIRST STAR ICE OUTFIT SAME SEASON

Lionel Selected on Canadian Press All-stars After Nine Years, Campaigning in National Hockey League; Charlie Makes Grade After Three Seasons; Pair Have Never Worked Together on the Ice

Toronto, March 22.—There are better brother acts in sport than that of the Conachers, Lionel and Charlie. The Conachers, the Roches, the Manthas of hockey; the Waners and Meuels and Sewells of baseball; the Jotkus boys of football have all been better combinations. This is solely because the Conachers have never worked together on the ice.

Both selected on the 1934 Canadian Press all-star National Hockey League team, the "big train" of the Chicago Black Hawks and his "kid" brother of Toronto's Maple Leafs made their ways along the big league trails without each other's assistance. There is nine years difference in their age and Lionel was the greatest all-round athlete in Canada when Chuck was still in public school.

This week they achieve for the first time all-star rating, together. One of the Conachers and one of the Manthas had reached this pinnacle, Bill and Sylvia.

Paul Waner made it in baseball, but Lloyd failed. Pete Jotkus is an all-eastern football player, but brother Mike isn't. And they had brother acts.

HAS HARDEST SHOT
They couldn't hold him this year. He scored thirty-two goals and twenty assists to lead the league in point-making. A few days ago sports editors were almost unanimous that he packs the hardest shot in hockey. Charlie stands six feet one inch, three-quarters of an inch under Lionel's height. The brothers weigh approximately the same—about 202 pounds.

Wavering Wheat
Prices Steadied
By Export Sales

Winnipeg, March 22.—Good buying by export interests steadied wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Closing quotations were 1/4 cent higher.

The late wheat carried values up to the high points and they never looked back. May wheat ended at 67 1/2, with July option at 69 cents.

Sentiment became quite friendly to the market after midsection and quotations recovered small losses sustained during the export hour. No figure was placed on export sales late in the day however.

Chicago strengthened in late trading, also aiding the recovery at Winnipeg.

Black Sea ports, which cleared 300,000 bushels last week, failed to ship any wheat during the last seven days. Argentine wheat clearances for the past week are estimated at 4-250,000 bushels, slightly under last week's movement and about the same as clearances a year ago.

Dullness prevailed in cash grains. Coarse grains were neglected and for the most part sustained small fractional losses.

Chicago, March 22.—Late upturn lifted wheat values to-day to above Wednesday's finish, but top quotations were not well maintained.

Wheat closed unsettled, unchanged to 1/4 cent higher, corn 1/4 cent to 1/2 up; oats unchanged to 1/4 advance, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents decline.

BIBLE TEXTS ARE QUOTED

Economic Troubles Due to Neglect of Mosaic Customs, Washington Informed

Washington, March 22.—The AAA's conference of farm paper editors was a sober, unexciting affair until someone brought up the question of Holy Writ. Secretary Wallace had made a speech and thrown the meeting open to questions, when an editor explained that clergymen in his area were attacking the crop reduction programme from their pulpits on the ground that it was against the teachings of the Bible.

Other editors chimed in with a similar story. Texts were quoted back and forth with fervor. Wallace himself can cite chapter and verse unerringly. But the editors pressed him.

They recalled that "every second year ye shall let the land lie idle" and that all debts should be canceled every seven years. Wallace said that the Bible was not in accordance with Biblical injunction.

Wallace, while believing that religious principles must govern the future of man, finally ended the discussion by asserting that he felt the issue was not one for the churches.

MAY REVISE MOTOR FEES

England May Issue One-week Short Term Licenses to Get Cars on Road

London, March 22.—A movement is under way here for a radical revision of motor vehicle duties.

Foremost among the new proposals will be the institution of short-term licenses, so that a vehicle may be put into commission for a period of say seven days instead of a month, which is the present minimum.

It is held to be an opportune time to press for a reform which has long been wanted and which will not, it is claimed, mean any sacrifice of revenue.

It will be pointed out to the minister that some 200,000 vehicles are laid up in Great Britain every winter owing to the rigidity of the existing system. This means a great loss of revenue to the trade and also losses to the Treasury in reduced receipts from petrol and license duties. These are computed at over £1,000,000.

The proposed amendment would permit private owners to license cars for the Christmas holidays and would be a very great boon to coach and bus operators on special occasions. Many operators, indeed, would prefer one-day licenses so that they could cater for football parties and the like at week-ends.

The minister will also be asked to consider whether greater inducements cannot be made to keep their vehicles licensed throughout the year.

These proposals have been strongly supported by the motor industry for many years past. They have been resisted on the ground of the extra work and expense they would cost on the licensing authorities.

Strawberry Vale

The regular card party of the Strawberry Vale Women's Institute was held in the institute hall on Monday evening. Highest score was made by Mrs. Hensley and A. Foley, second prizes went to Mrs. Paine and Mr. J. Goldie, and consolation to Mrs. Clamidge and Freeman. Mrs. Harper was coaxed, assisted by Miss Lillian Rowland. An old-time dance followed the game. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Percival, Sooke, returned to their home on Monday after visiting in the district.

SPA Will Not Take Away Legal Rights

People Need Not Fear Control Vested in Government, Dougald McPherson Tells Liberal Association

People of British Columbia need have no fear of the powers which will be vested in the government under the Special Powers Act, for they will never lose any of their constitutional rights, and the Cabinet will never introduce legislation of extensive effect without first consulting the Legislature, Dougald McPherson, M.P.P. for Grand Forks, and chairman of the mines committee, yesterday evening assured a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Ward Five Liberal Association.

Mr. McPherson and R. R. Burns, M.P.P. for Rossland-Trail, were guest speakers at the meeting, the former speaking with the political situation, while the latter spoke on the interior.

Throughout the greater part of his speech, Mr. McPherson strongly defended the SPA and warned the audience that any misrepresentation should not be tolerated, and that only the definite facts concerning the bill should be considered.

FIRST OPPOSED ACT

Both stated they had primarily opposed the act, but when they had heard certain explanations which were not possible to divulge at a public meeting, they were wholly satisfied with the sincerity of its terms and its benefits for the province.

"Why should I be a Liberal?" was answered, who stated he was going to endeavor to endeavor to answer questions now in the minds of the people. "I am a reformer, so why shouldn't I be?" he said, adding that his reformatory attitude was developed because of the conditions of poverty under which he was brought up.

He approved the association's plan to form a young people's branch, but warned that they must be told of the personal sacrifices they would be required to make.

The greatest problem before Liberalism and the country to-day was the preservation of the honor and integrity of the young people, he continued.

The SPA undoubtedly agitates the minds of the people, and especially the Liberals, to-day, stated Mr. McPherson. "Don't let anyone tell you that this bill wipes out Parliament, because it can't be done and won't," he said. "It means that the Cabinet be given powers of legislation between sessions.

CONFIDENCE IN GOVERNMENT

"Here is the situation: Mr. Patullo and his government have recently come from the people and elected representatives, and if he has not given you any reason to believe that confidence was misplaced, and I submit he hasn't, then why should he betray you during the interim?"

"Who steals my purse steals trash," he said, quoting Shakespeare. "Who takes my legislative power betrays the nation," he said.

In other words, a member of parliament has less power than any other member on the civil service payroll, and if Mr. Patullo wants that power between the sessions to rectify conditions in this country, he is entirely welcome to it."

The member also stated the bill violated no legal aspects and argued it would stand the highest tests in the legal courts of Canada.

There was no comparison of this situation with that in Italy, Hungary and other countries where dictators ruled, he said. He admitted he did not necessarily approve of this type of administration, but realized there was necessity for such legislation to meet present conditions.

NEED EMERGENCY POWERS

"It is true we are giving the government supreme powers," he continued, "but they are necessary on this occasion because we are facing a stone wall and it's going to open and we don't know what to expect."

Furthermore, he said, the government was opposing the Federal Government and the province was in the hands of R. B. Bennett, who, he said, was falling in his duties.

"So, by the grace of God, and the judgment of good men, we are going to get out of our trouble," he concluded.

Mr. Burns paid tribute to Mr. McPherson, whom he described as "one of the greatest liberals this province has ever known."

"Few of you realize the importance of the southeastern portion of British Columbia," said Mr. Burns, explaining he was not going to delve into politics but would tell the meeting of the interior district.

DEPEND ON MINING

He dealt with the importance of the Sullivan Mine at Kimberley, which, he stated, was responsible for the livelihood of 35,000 persons in that district. Last year, he said, Trail contributed $203,000, or 4½ per cent, of the province's taxes, while there was only $27,000 spent there on the roads and other works. From this it was evident that the lower mainland and Vancouver Island got a much better deal than the interior area.

He referred briefly to the Doukhobor problem of the interior and, incidentally, thought the solution of it might have been far more adequately supplied by those in the district familiar with it rather than provide Pier Island for members of the sect. The situation, he said humorously, might easily have been met by enclosing the demonstrators in a wire-enclosed lot and keep their clothes away from them, when they took them off.

"And if you don't think the summer temperature of 112 and ten degrees of frost has cured their religious beliefs, then I don't know what would," he commented amid laughter.

Finally, Mr. Burns spoke of the high integrity of members of the Cabinet, adding it was foolish to assume that men of such calibre would betray people in eight months' time. Moreover, he assured, anything which the government had done might be undone at the next session if it was felt it was not in the best interests of the province.

M.P.'S DEBATE R.C.M.P. WORK

Detectives Not Spying on Labor Unions, Says Minister of Justice

Canadian Press

Ottawa, March 22.—No instructions are given to secret service men of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to operate within legitimate trade unions, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, told J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre, in the House of Commons.

Woodsworth, complaining of the activities some years ago of Sergeant Leopold, engaged in a sharp clash with the minister Tuesday evening when he charged the secret service men acted as "agents provocateurs" at regularly constituted trade union meetings.

"This accusation was vigorously denied by the minister, who asserted that Mr. Woodsworth had no right to make any such insinuation. Sergeant Leopold had acted in a manner which was not reprehensible, and the minister believed Mr. Woodsworth's protests were inspired by the prospect of the eight Communist men serving terms at Kingston.

ALONG BORDER

The stringency with which the Royal Canadian Mounted Police carried out their duties along the St. Lawrence waterfront and along the boundary line of the prairies formed subject of complaint. The zeal of the Mounted was scored by Major-General A. E. Ross, Conservative, Kingston, John D. Brown, Liberal, Lacombe, and Arthur L. Beaulieu, Liberal, Provencher, Man. Its defence, however, came from the Minister of Justice.

Mr. Guthrie said that inasmuch as offences appeared to have been committed it was contrary to his duty to continue them or to ask the Mounted to be less vigilant. So long as the laws were on the statute book the job of the police was to enforce them, and to enforce them to the limit. There was no discretion in the matter. Complaints of law evasion had been received from Brockville, Belleville and Kingston, said the minister.

LOWER INTEREST FOR FARMERS

Toronto, March 22.—The Toronto Globe yesterday said in a dispatch from its Ottawa correspondent that considerable progress was evident in the government proposal to obtain agreement from loan companies for reduction of interest rates on loans to farmers.

The newspaper said it had been proposed that interest on all farm loans in "abeyance" be reduced in future and that "the companies will be paid only a three per cent rate. The government will guarantee this, while to the farmers the government will reduce the rate to four per cent. The one per cent difference is to be used for administration and to absorb losses."

It was said 90 per cent of the farm loans are placed with insurance, mortgage and trust companies and that they bear interest ranging from six to eight per cent.

GERMANY'S MAP STATED CHANGING

Munich, Germany, March 22.—The declaration that Germany's map is bound to change because Germany have liberated themselves from the "ice age of senility" was made by Chancellor Hitler in an address preliminary to the opening yesterday of a national drive against unemployment.

Chancellor Hitler told his hearers—all of them Nazi pioneers—to look at maps and observe the changes produced by historical developments. It was folly to "believe in permanence," the Chancellor asserted. "Our people are not effete. On the contrary, they are very much alive; they know what they want and aim to realize it."

"For that reason, he added, "the map of the Reich will continue to change."

GLASS TAPPER TAPS FOR TONES

New York, March 22.—For twelve years now, Mr. Wesley Osman has been going around tapping glasses.

Even in restaurants and at banquets he cannot resist a stemmed, empty glass as you would a fiddle string; he explains, nobody can blow or muddle a glass and know beforehand how it is going to vibrate. After it is made you can put water in it and change the tone, but the tone is not so pure.

Mr. Osmani performs in vaudeville, and at events such as the Wine and Liquor Exposition. A small, patient man, he now uses twenty-seven glasses which he has collected in the twelve years, but he would like some more for the upper and lower registers. Plays anything from classical music to fast jazz, using both hands and stroking the edges of the glasses with dampened fingers. He is very proud of the glasses he has now, and can tell you a story about each one of them. The especially mellow low G glass was discovered in a speakeasy on Fifty-second Street just before the place was raided. He had a hard time getting it out intact. Several others were found in restaurants hereabout, one on shipboard, one in a dining car.
